Early Collapse of Iran Resistance Predicted in London

NAZIS CLAIM ANCIENT FINNISH GULF CITY IS CUT OFF ON ALL SIDES

By the Associated Press

Giant walls of flames streaking up over the siege-girt port of allinn, capital of Estonia, indicated today that the Russians were de-troying the city and presumably getting ready for a mass attempt to scape by sea.

German troops were reported to have the ancient Finnish gulf wn (normal population, over 135,000) cut off on all sides by land.

Dispatches from Helsinki, Finland, 50 miles across the gulf, said ie glow of the southern horizon above Tallinn began last night and ntinued this morning.

Observers on the Finnish shore also heard the thunder of tillery fire, indicating that German siege guns were pounding the ty.

"Operations before Tallinn proceed successfully," the German High ommand announced, adding that Nazi warplanes had sunk four oviet transports and damaged four other ships in the Finnish gulf.

Only a few days ago, the Nazis said they had thwarted an at-mpt to send supplies to the beleaguered city, sinking seven Russian ips, two transports, a destroyer and a flotilla leader heading through e Gulf of Finland toward Tallinn.

Other rapid-fire developments crowded the international picture:

In London, informed sources predicted the collapse of Iran's re-stance within the next three days as Russian troops driving south-ard into the Middle East oil kingdom reportedly captured Tabriz, e country's second biggest city, and British Imperial forces strik-g northward advanced 40 miles.

In Berlin, the German High Commnad reported that Adolf Hitler's vasion armies had annihilated the 22nd Russian Army and captured e town of Velikie Luki, far behind the main German-Russian line, lling more than 40,000 Red army troops and taking 30,000 prisoners.

Delayed dispatches from Teheran, the Iran capital, reported that e British and Russian ministers, after an audience with the Shah, d transmitted to their governments an Iran plea for peace. British ports from Simla, India, headquarters of the British command, said at Iran's small navy had been wiped out by British men o' war d that Iranian Admiral Bayendor had been killed in action.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said Red Army forces in-ding Iran (Persia) from the north had captured the town of Dilman, ly 100 miles northwest of Teheran, the capital. This would repre-nt a 3-day advance of 150 miles.

A sharp new crisis over shipment

American aviation fuel to Rus-a developed as the Soviet gov-nment made public a warning to pan that it would regard as "an friendly act" any attempt to nder trade relations between ssia and the United States via ir East ports.

Swiftly following upon this dis-osure, Domei, the official Japan-e news agency, reported that pan had made representations both the United States and ssia against shipment of Amer-an gasoline to Vladivostok, Rus-'s great Siberian port. The kyo government, it said, was aiting replies.

Domei, asserted that 10,000,000 llons of high-octane gasoline d already left American west ast ports en route to Vladivos-k and said the Tokyo govern-ent was viewing the situation th the utmost concern. The ct that high-octane fuel, denied Japan, was reported "passing der the very noses of the Japan-e" was described by Domei as reatly irritating Japanese sen-nent."

To reach Vladivostok, such ipments must pass through the a of Japan.

In warning Tokyo against in-rference, the Russian govern-ent assured Japan that supplies rchased by the U. S. S. R. in e United States were "destined the first place" to fulfill grow-g needs on the western front, in e 67-day-old war with Germany. In Tokyo, the newspaper Kuko-n declared "the imperial gov-nment was unable to remain in-ferent to aid shipments from e standpoint of preserving peace East Asia."

Japanese officials have express-anxiety that United States war pplies sent to Russia might re-ain in the Far East for use along e Manchukuo-Siberia frontier, ere upwards of 1,000,000 Soviet ops and 500,000 Japanese sol-rs are said to be massed.

At the same time the United ates, announcing that a military ssion would be sent to Chung-g in two weeks, gave Japan new dence that Washington intend-no change in its attitude to-rd Japan's military incursion in ina.

There was no confirmation in scow of German claims that ga, 90 miles south of Lenin-ad, and the big Dnieper bend dro-electric power center at ieperopetrovsk had been cap-ed.

The Russians reported holding stubbornly around menaced ningrad and said that although luftwaffe had struck at the tified port repeatedly, not a gle bomb had fallen within the y limits.

10,500,000 Pounds of Aluminum Collected

Washington, Aug. 27—(AP)—The Office of Production Management was optimistic today that final returns from the recent aluminum collecting campaign would total 14,000,000 pounds of scrap.

When refined this will yield about 10,500,000 pounds of aluminum. This is the equivalent of the amount of pure aluminum needed for 2,800 fighting planes.

FLASH FLOODS CAUSE HAVOC IN MANY SECTIONS

Damage Running Into Thousands of Dollars is Counted Up From Series Of Washouts Over Widely Scattered Districts in State

DROWNINGS REPORTED

Pittsburgh, Aug. 27—(AP)—Damage that ran into thousands of dollars was counted up today from a series of flash floods over widely scattered western Pennsylvania districts.

At least one boy was known to have been drowned, a three-year-old girl was missing and feared drowned, and motor police said the heavy rain might have played a part in one of the worst wrecks on the new super-highway in which two were killed and four hurt.

James Johnson, 9, of Hope Hollow, Fayette county, was swept to his death late yesterday when he lost his footing on a log bridge across the racing Hope Hollow creek. His brother and another companion leaped into the stream in a desperate effort to save him.

Near Greensburg, Evelyn Thompson, youngest of 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson of Gay Plan, was missing and feared drowned in the storm-swollen Zellers Run. She had been playing near the stream with two sisters, who were sent to the store. Evelyn asked her mother for her "new brown coat," put it on and went back to play. Two hours later she was missed and some 200 firemen and neighbors searched through the night for her.

Lightning accompanied the storm in many vicinities. Smithfield, Fayette county, was without lights for seven hours when a bolt struck a power transformer. Members of the Baptist church, arranging for a gala wedding to be held today, had to use candles and flashlights to complete their job.

Pittsburgh and its suburbs were particularly hard hit. Scores of cellars were flooded and pavements were ripped up in many sections.

Near Castle Shannon, along outbound trolley tracks, more than a dozen Washington, Charleroi and Castle Shannon cars were halted for several hours by coal that was loosened from a bank and tumbled down, blocking the tracks.

SNOWPLOW IN USE

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 27—(AP)—A hailstorm of such intensity that a snowplow was called into service to open the Denver highway struck north of here last night. Hailstones piled up from eight to 10 inches on a nine-mile stretch. A few flakes of snow fell with the hail.

Moscow, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Russian troops driving southeastward into Iran directly toward Teheran have captured the town of Dilman, only 100 miles northwest of the capital, the official Soviet news agency has announced today.

Tokyo, Aug. 27.—(AP)—All embassies and legations—Axis, Allied and neutral—in Japan, it was learned today, are to be put under oil and gasoline quota restrictions in connection with a drastic rationing system which from Sept. 1, will ban gasoline-fueled taxis and buses.

Berlin, Aug. 27.—(AP)—German sources said the British lost seven Spitfires before noon today in attempts to penetrate the French and Belgian channel coasts. In German counter-blows overnight, they said the luftwaffe attacked harbor facilities on the British east coast and destroyed five grounded planes on bombed airports.

Tokyo, Aug. 27.—(AP)—District air raid practice in preparation for annual nationwide civil defense drills next month began in downtown Tokyo today with accent on defense against incendiary bombs which one newspaper indirectly suggested might come from American planes.

4,500 GALONS OF GAS SPILLED ON PAVEMENT

Evans City, Aug. 27—(AP)—A truck-trailer gasoline carrier overturned today on Route 68 at the entrance to Evans City, spilling its cargo of 4,500 gallons of gasoline.

Fearing the fuel might ignite, firemen blocked off and area around the wreck, detoured traffic, and started pumps to suck the gasoline from the street and a small stream nearby.

The truck was owned by the Marshall Company of Rouseville, near Oil City. Laverne Young of Emlenton, the occupant, escaped with slight injuries.

NATIONAL PHONE TIE-UP HALTED

Dr. John R. Steelman, Director of the United States Conciliation Service, Wins Understanding Beween Western Electric Employes and Company After 61 Hours of Negotiations

NEW STRIKE THREAT AT DU PONT FACTORY

By the Associated Press

AFL Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Operators won at the ballot box today in the jurisdictional dispute which tied up Detroit's city transit system by strike last week. At the same time, the threat of a national telephone tie-up was averted.

A complete but unofficial tabulation of the Detroit vote named the AFL union as executive bargaining agent for the city transit system.

The election was part of an agreement, ratified Sunday, which ended the strike and the inconvenience it had caused the city's working population of 400,000.

The telephone dispute ended with an understanding between union installation men and the Western Electric Company, a unit of the Bell Telephone system.

Chief terms of the settlement were: A blanket wage increase of 6 cents an hour for about 9,000 employes; national recognition of the union as bargaining agent; new seniority provisions; an arbitration agreement, and the right on the part of the union to reopen the wage discussions March 1, 1942, if it sees fit to do so.

The Western Electric employes work in all sections of the country and were represented by the Association of Communications Equipment Workers, an independent union.

The wage increase is retroactive to July 29, and is coupled with a wage progression agreement. Company officials estimated the total additional cost to the firm at $1,500,000 a year. The current wage scale was not disclosed.

The union had issued a tentative strike call for mid-August, but the proposed walkout was held in abeyance at the request of the conciliation service while negotiations proceeded.

A new strike threat arose mean-

Bomber Delivered To England In 7½ Hours

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Consolidated Aircraft Corp., reported today a British Liberator bomber, averaging more than 300 miles an hour in sub-zero weather, had made a delivery flight across the Atlantic in seven and one-half hours.

Details of the flight from Newfoundland to Ireland were in an account released by the British Ministry of Aircraft Production to Consolidated, based on a report of the bomber's navigator.

The four-motor land bomber made the 2,350 mile trip at such a high altitude the crew wore oxygen masks. The outside temperature was 32 degrees below zero, but the navigator said the heated cabin was warm.

A crew of five made the flight, with an American at the controls.

Philadelphia, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was told today by Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, veterans administrator, that strikes on defense projects are "the result of bad advice." The veterans, after hearing the Hines address, adopted a resolution urging that jurisdictional strikes be considered unAmerican and outlawed. In another address, Brigadier General Lewis B. Hershey, deputy director of Selective Service, said that "something has to be done" about the high percentage of men rejected by the army for physical defects.

Philadelphia, Aug. 27—(AP)—Swinging back into business sessions after a mammoth military parade, the Veterans of Foreign Wars national encampment apparently moved toward a showdown today on court martial of Illinois Department Commander Earl Southard.

DAIRY FARMERS CONFERRING ON PRICE SITUATION

Van Hornesville, N. Y., Aug. 27—(AP)—Owen D. Young, retired industrialist, conferred today with representatives of 55,000 dairymen serving the New York City market who have requested the Federal-State Marketing Authority to boost the fluid price from $2.88 a hundredweight (47 quarts) to $3.82.

Purpose of the meeting at Young's dairy farm here was not announced. It followed a discussion at Washington yesterday by Young, New York State Milk Control Director Kenneth F. Fee and Agriculture Secretary Wickard on ways of alleviating conditions in the milkshed caused by drought and labor shortages.

The petition signed and submitted to federal-state authorities by spokesmen of five major dairy groups asked a fluid price designed to bring producers a blended price for all milk of about $3 a hundred weight. This was the price demanded by the dairy farmers union in sponsoring an eight-day

Members of Communists Party Threatened With Criminal Prosecution and Contempt Proceedings For Refusing To Answer Questions

NAMES ARE WITHHELD

Philadelphia, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Members of the Communists party were threatened with criminal prosecution and contempt proceedings today for refusing to answer questions at a hearing on Pennsylvania's new anti-subversive law.

The hearing was begun yesterday by the county board of elections to determine whether the law bars the Communist party from the ballot.

John Carsillo, who said he had been a Communist for 20 years, declined to tell today who collected names on two nomination petitions presented to the board because to do so "would jeopardize their jobs and subject them to police pressure."

Mrs. Anna Kress likewise refused to answer the same questions.

Morton Witkin, president of the board, said:

"Your refusal makes you amenable to the criminal law as well as to contempt proceedings."

Chairman Morton Witkin halted the hearing yesterday after heated arguments with Communist party counsel during which protesting shouts of "Kangeroo court" and "Hitler justice" were heard.

The flareup came after officials offered their testimony to justify refusal to accept nominating petitions of Joseph Dougher for city controller and Thomas Nabried for city treasurer.

The board called the nearing to determine whether Communist party petitions nominating them are illegal under a state law barring candidates of any party which advocates the forcible overthrow of the government. Communist leaders claim their party does not have this aim.

Dr. Joseph B. Matthews, research director for the Dies Committee, testified the Communist party here did advocate overthrow of the government. Argument that brought policemen hurrying to the scene ensued when Communist Counsel David Levinson and Philip Dorfman sought to question Matthews and had dozens of queries ruled out by Witkin.

Dorfman said that of 10,000 persons who signed the nominating petitions for the Communist candidates, 80 or 90 per cent were Republicans or Democrats.

LARGE SCALE RAIDS ARE WAGED IN PARIS

Paris, German-Occupied France, Aug. 26 — (Delayed) — (AP)—French police, proceeding systematically house by house, today blocked off a large section of the fourth arrondissement (ward)—workers' district around city hall—and took into custody a number of persons described as Jews and Communists.

All residents in the area, which lies along the river Seine, were required to remain inside their homes and submit identification papers to the police.

(This raid followed others in two Paris arrondissements last week—the 11th and 20th—in which more than 10,000 persons were arrested.)

Pennsylvania Producers Begin Planning For Visit to Washington to Lay Before the Office of Production Management Their Protests Over Recent Freezing of Prices At August 14 Level

COMMITTEE STARTS SHORTAGE INQUIRY

BULLETIN

Washington, Aug. 27—(AP)—Senator Maloney (D-Conn) proposed today that all unused railroad tank cars be set to rolling in an effort to relieve shortages of gasoline, fuel oil and other products. "I have the feeling that we may press the now unused tank cars—and other tank cars not badly needed otherwise—into immediate service," Maloney said. "I know that the cost of transportation by rail has been considerably greater than by tanker and pipe line." To offset this added cost, the senator suggested that railroads might "move whole trains of tank cars at one time," and thus reduce costs substantially. Maloney is chairman of a special committee appointed yesterday to begin a Senate investigation of the shortage tomorrow.

Bradford, Aug. 27—(AP)—Pennsylvania oil producers began planning today for a visit to Washington to lay before the OPM their protest over the recent freezing of prices at 23 to 25 cents a barrel under the market.

Hugh Grant, president of the Bradford District, Pennsylvania Oil Producers Association, announced receipt of a telegram from J. K. Galbraith, director of the price division of the Office of Price Administration, saying a conference could be arranged.

Galbraith specified that the producers, allied industries and employes would be heard "in the near future" if such data as they cared to present for consideration were submitted in advance.

TOP PRICE FOR HARD COAL IS CONSIDERED

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 27—(AP)—Several hours of discussion behind closed doors brought a recommendation from the Pennsylvania Anthracite Committee that the September 15 price be used as a ceiling if the federal government fixes a limit on hard coal prices this winter.

Price Control Administrator Leon Henderson recently indicated he might freeze prices at the August 15 level of $6.60 a ton. The price of hard coal of chestnut size on September 15 will be $6.75 a ton at the mines compared with $6.25 last winter. Prices of all sizes of coal are based on that of chestnut.

Community Singing To Boost Morale Advised

Philadelphia, Aug. 27—(AP)—Let's all sing like the birdies sing and boost civilian morale. That's the prescription of Lucy Monroe who's putting her idea into practice by holding community sings all over America.

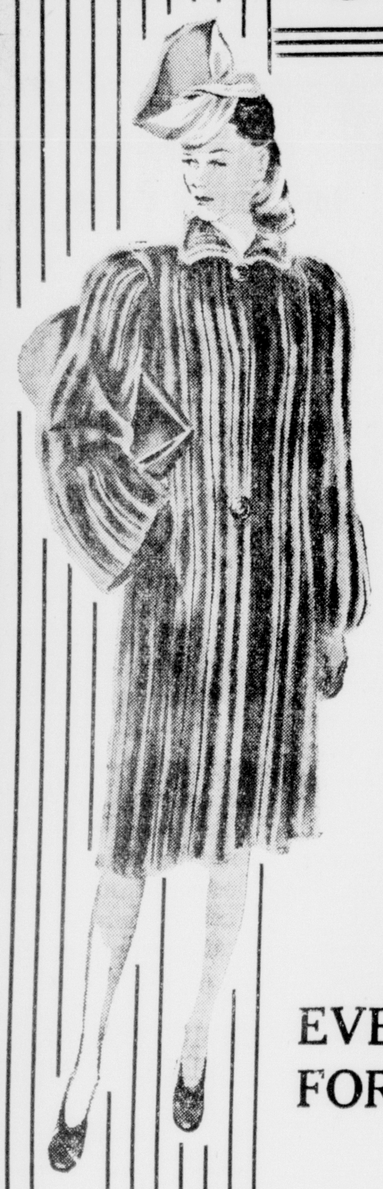

The former Ziegfeld chorus girl who sang her way into grand opera insists there's nothing like community singing for making people feel close together and patriotic.

Her sing of her tour took place at Washington early this month and attracted an enthusiastic crowd of 35,000. The second is scheduled tonight at the Philadelphia municipal stadium.

"It's mostly old-fashioned sentimental songs that people want to sing," claims the 1941 version of the wandering minstrel. "Or patri-

He said Illinois delegates in caucus here had gone on record supporting him "and intimating they are going to bring the matter before the convention" where he is barred by suspension.

However, doubt that the affair would reach the convention floor was expressed by National Commander Joseph C. Menendez, who said he looked for a decision today or tomorrow from the 10 past state commanders who tried Southard at Chicago last week.

The Illinois chief's arrival followed announcement by Menendez that state commanders are "almost unanimous" in their endorsement of President Roosevelt's defense efforts and his foreign policies. He said 45 of 48 state leaders in a recent poll sanctioned the Roosevelt program.

After hearing Mayor Fiorella H. La Guardia of New York assert that a negotiated peace with Hitler would put this country in a position of a cop shaking hands with a bandit, the veterans yesterday put on one of Philadelphia's biggest parades despite 92.4 degree heat which sent 1,300 persons to hospitals.

An estimated 750,000 turned out to acclaim the spectacle which included 50,000 veterans of America's foreign battles since 1898, wives, sons and daughters marching with 250 bands that blared and thundered from noon to dusk. Detachments of police, soldiers, sailors and marines added a military note to the show. It took 2,800 of Philadelphia's 4,200 policemen to keep the crowd from treading on each other's toes.

CORRY TEACHER IS ATTACKED BY FATHER IN N. J.

Miss Evelyn Brooks, 24-year-old Corry school teacher, was cut about the face, head and hands Tuesday when her father, Frederick Brooks, attacked her with a razor and hammer in their Summit, N. J., home, according to an Associated Press dispatch. The father had been injured six weeks ago in an automobile accident and had apparently succumbed to mental strain and attacked her without warning.

After the attack on the daughter, Brooks plunged to his death from an attic window of their home. Miss Brooks ran to neighbors screaming "I believe my father has gone mad."

The Corry teacher had been living with her father during the summer to care for him following the automobile accident. Reports from Corry state that Miss Brooks went to that city to teach French and English in the Senior high school at the beginning of the past school year. She went directly to Corry following her graduation from Bucknell University. Last Monday night she was granted a leave of absence by the Corry Board of Education so that might go to the New Jersey home to care for her father.

Even though I studied engineering as a boy, I was amazed at that gigantic structure, Boulder Dam. Waldemar von Zedtwitz, who has traveled throughout the world, thought it the greatest piece of engineering he had ever seen.

I recommend that any player who wants to improve his bridge game take a trip to Boulder Dam. Looking at that project, you realize what planning the engineers had to do. A little planning in advance on any bridge hand will bring you a better score.

Today's hand is really a problem hand. Your contract is three no trump. With the opening lead, you are supposed to make three against any possible defense. Study the hand carefully before you look at the solution, and see if you can make the contract.

North is allowed to hold the jack of spades. He cannot help the defense by a shift. It is best to lead a second spade, letting the king fall to the ace, with the queen an entry to dummy.

West must now lead a low club and let South win with the ten. This puts South on the spot for exit. If he continues clubs, declarer wins two clubs, besides four diamonds, two spades, and a heart, as dummy has two quick entries for the diamond finesses. If South tries to exit with a heart, he simply develops a second heart trick for declarer's ninth trick.

Oil Men To Be Given a Hearing

cuts despite orders by Leon Henderson. South Penn is the largest purchaser of the oil.

Washington, Aug. 27—(AP)—A plan of action against gasoline profiteering was drafted by the government today, and tomorrow a senate investigating committee proposes to begin finding out whether the reported eastern oil shortage is supported by facts.

Leon Henderson, price administrator, indicated he would proclaim forthwith a ceiling for motor fuel prices, to protect the 10,000,000 Atlantic seaboard motorists against unwarranted price increases.

Secretary Ickes, the defense petroleum coordinator, was called as the first witness before a special sub-committee of the senate commerce committee, set up yesterday after Senator Maloney (D-Conn) had said he wanted to find out "if there is an actual shortage or if we are being pushed around for psychological reasons."

Ickes, however, was vacationing in the west, and it was expected Ralph K. Davies, acting coordinator, would appear in his stead. Davies declared last night that the inquiry "will serve as a means for enlightening the public as to the conditions we face."

President Roosevelt, at his press conference yesterday, forecast that the problem of supplyin gthe east with oil would be cased substantially by spring, through launching of new tankers and by building of two pipe lines from the southwest to the eastern seaboard.

The trend of discussion in oil circles indicated the gasoline investigation would hinge on four questions:

1. Is there a bona-fide shortage?
2. Does there exist an organized effort by certain persons or interests to circulate false information to confuse the public?
3. Was there justification for transfer to Britain of one-fifth the tanker fleet hauling oil from gulf ports to the eastern seaboard?
4. How effectively are railway tank cars being used to meet the emergency, and how many surplus or idle tank cars are available?

touch anything."

The dead children were Marcella, 7, Claire, 4, and Paul, 3. The wounded were William, Jr., 11, and his father, William, a former policeman, both taken to Methodist Hospital.

William, Jr., was not expected to live.

Assistant District Attorney Heffernan quoted Morey, who was dismissed from the force in 1938 on intoxication charges, as saying: "My wife did it. My wife did it."

A hatchet handle and its bloody blade were found in different parts of the flat. A small knife, bloodstained, was found near the bodies.

Two Killed In Bad Wreck On Dream Highway

Mary Jane Bismark, 16, a daughter, was so critically injured surgeons feared for her life. Anita, 14, another daughter, was cut and bruised.

Wilt and his wife escaped with minor hurts. He told state motor police he was riding along at 50 or 55 miles an hour when suddenly he saw the other car careening toward him.

"I swerved to the right and slammed on my brakes but before I could stop, I was hit."

Mrs. Bismark's 1937 coach was demolished. State motor police said she had just passed a big moving van in the rain when she lost control of her car. She was going west, apparently returning for a visit to her home in Milwaukee. Her husband, a printer, recently had obtained a job in Washington. He came here today.

Wilt was returning to Altoona from a visit to Pittsburgh, where he had an adjustment made in his artificial left leg.

At the hearings, dairymen requested an early referendum so that the increased returns would become effective Sept. 1.

FARM NEWS

Harrisburg, Aug. 27.— (AP) — Canneries and fruit packing houses throughout Pennsylvania went into full operation this week as the first sizable lots of 1941 fruits and vegetables poured in for processing.

Peach shipping began in the Franklin-Adams county district late last week and canneries indicated the quality of the fruit is the best in years.

Recent rains in nearly every section of the state have lessened the possibility of drought damage to vegetable crops, the Department of Agriculture reported, and tomatoes, corn and beans are expected to account for one of the heaviest canning seasons the state has had in years.

But snap beans in the Bucks-Philadelphia area were damaged by heavy rains.

In the western part of the state, snap beans made excellent growth and early cabbage was generally a full crop, the department of agriculture reported. Late Danish crop planting is about complete and late cabbage is heading fast in the Columbia-Luzerne-Schuylkill area.

Pennsylvania farmers' cash income last May totalled $52,036,000, as compared with $44,664,000 during the same month in 1940, state agricultural officials disclosed. A breakdown for May 1941 showed $5,448,000 realized from crops; $20,530,000 from livestock and livestock products, and $26,028,000 from farm marketings.

Shipment reports of the Department of Agriculture show that from July 10 to August 2, only two carlots of Pennsylvania apples were sent out, as compared with 171 carlots in the same period last year. Purchases by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation accounted for many of the shipments last year.

While the nationwide lamb crop this year set a new record, Pennsylvania reports only 268,000 breeding ewes one year and older, as compared with 273,000 in 1940 and the previous 10-year average of 307,000. The national crop is estimated at 34,549,000 head, five per cent higher than last year when a new record was established.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 27, 1941

FALL IS NEAR

It isn't pleasant to think about, but the truth is that the summer is rapidly slipping away. But a few days remain of the vacation season.

In just one week school will be in session again. In most Warren county communities classes will resume next Tuesday or Wednesday. Play time for the youngsters is practically at an end.

Folks who are wise will take full advantage of the few weeks of pleasant weather that remain. Get out into the open all that you can. Absorb as much sunshine as you can, storing it up in your system against those wintry days when infection is prevalent. Physicians say it's the best preventive medicine in the world.

WINGS OVER THE COUNTRY

The present C. P. T. flight class at the Warren airport is over half finished, according to officials. Seven students have already passed their private flight tests as well as their cross country flights. Their instructors say "Good weather and the zest of the students have put this class through in record time," modestly refraining from making any comment about the excellent work of the officials and staff at the airport.

In this connection here's a suggestion from one of our Washington correspondents that merits some serious consideration. He says: "When the defense effort is over, and maybe before, the idea of people boosting civilian aviation for everyday use is to start teaching the kids aviation right in the grammar schools. Give 'em courses in model building as soon as they can whittle. Let 'em go to gliders when they're in high school. Then graduate to power flying when they get to college.

When that happens you will see multiplied a thousand times the experience of towns like Ada, Okla.

Only a couple of years ago, Ada's interest in flying consisted of "one airplane and me," according to the airport manager. And one doesn't have to think back very many months to remember when that situation prevailed right here in Warren.

Today there are two hangars at Ada full of planes, eleven private ships, ninety licensed pilots, and the city council has voted a $100,000 bond issue to start a $350,000 airport. By comparison there are 29 fliers with private licenses connected with the Warren airport, five of whom have commercial licenses, and two of these are instructing at other fields. There are seven privately-owned planes at the field, in addition to three owned by Manager "Slip" King.

Three years ago, no college president would have put posters up urging the students to "take flying." Yet today, 350 colleges and universities give regular credits in aviation. And R. F. C., by the way, has loaned nearly $2,000,000 to finance the establishment of about twenty aviation schools.

Washington officials are overlooking a good bet by failing to issue an order to folks who use cars to reach the place of employment, compelling them to get up five or ten minutes earlier so they don't have to race to their work at fifty or sixty miles an hour. Such a regulation sure would conserve plenty of gas!

One of the very delightful events of the summer season at Island Park, Youngsville, was the annual Salvation Army picnic held there yesterday with about 150 in attendance, including children and adults.

Never thought the time would come when the most exciting news out of the state capital at Harrisburg was announcement of the engagement of the governor.

Your plans for the double holiday over the weekend should include a resolve that your outing be safe as well as enjoyable.

School buses around the county all look spick and span!

Don't forget the Farmington Fair Friday and Saturday!

Something Else to Worry About

YEARS AGO IN WARREN

Interesting Items Taken From the Warren Evening Times

In 1921

A syndicate has purchased good roads bonds of Warren county in the sum of $350,000. The funds from the sale of the bonds will provide the county commissioners with sufficient to liquidate the expense of the road construction now under way.

The closest match in the Horse Shoe-Quoit Pitching League thus far took place last evening when the Citizens National met the Policemen. At the end of ten games the score was tied and Radspinner was chosen by the Bankers and Haehn by the cops to pitch off the deadlock. The police won 21 to 20.

It has been a long time since the people of Warren attempted anything to interest the residents of the rural districts and the proposed auction of useful articles as well as livestock to be held in Warren in the near future should prove novel.

The street market this morning attracted the usual crowd and long before noon nothing was left but the fag-ends. Potatoes are still $2 the bushel.

Mrs. John Walters and Mrs. Oscar Granquist entertained the Glade W. C. T. U. at a picnic at the home of the former in Brown Run yesterday.

From all indications quiet will prevail in Warren on Labor Day.

In 1931

Proving that sugar cane can be raised successfully in Warren county, Peter Hedges, who has a small farm at Starbrick, is harvesting his third cutting this year from a plot about 50x150 feet. Some stalks are ten feet tall.

The "Little World Series" of mushball got under way on the South Side diamond last evening when the Hanson Electrical Service crew, champions of the Eastern League, defeated the Walker IXL clan, Western League pennant winners, by a score of 8 to 7.

Captain and Mrs. B. J. Sampson, who were transferred from Rochester to succeed Adjutant and Mrs. E. Toplis, in charge of the local Salvation Army work, have arrived in Warren with their family.

Weather permitting, "Prof." Floyd Stimson, who arrived in Warren this morning, will make another parachute jump at the airport this evening.

District Attorney Leroy C. Eddy and Sheriff H. H. Jefferson left last evening on a business trip to Pittsburgh.

Candidates are still busy with hardly a day passing but what a half dozen invade the rural sections of the county.

Letters to the Editor

Aug. 25, 1941.

Times-Mirror,
Warren, Pa.,

Dear Mr. Lowrey:

According to the latest Interstate Commerce Commission reports, the "net operating income" or profits of the Class 1 railroads rose from $48,090,783 in June last year to $93,261,372 in June this year, an increase of 94 percent, or nearly double.

Comparing the same months of 1940 and 1941, the railroad's "gross revenues" rose from $344,952,789 to $355,022,722, an increase of only 3 per cent.

Thus the percentage in profits was 31 times that in gross revenues.

Looked at another way, net operating income rose $45,170,589, or over four times more than the $11,069,933 increases in revenue.

To grasp the significance of these figures, it is necessary to know what net operating income and gross revenues are.

Gross revenues are the total amount of money the railroads receive for their service. Net operating income is the money the railroads have left after paying all expenses—including wages, supplies, and state and local taxes.

Net operating income is only part of the profit of the railroads, because they also have "other income." However, counting only their net operating income as profit, the above figures show:

That, of each $1 of gross revenues, the railroads had 14 cents left as profit in June 1940, and 26 cents in June 1941. In other words, the profit per dollar of revenues, nearly doubled. Why?

How was it possible for profits (net operating income) to rise 94 percent while revenues rose only 3 percent, to go up $45,170,589 while revenues went up only $11,069,933?

The obvious reason is that the railroads' expenses, including their total wage bill, went down $34,100,656 in June 1941, compared with June 1940.

Summed up, the railroads' profits are rising because they are hauling more traffic and taking in more money, while paying out less in expenses. This is possible because of the increasing efficiency of the railroads and their employes. In the past five years, the efficiency of the average railroad worker, measured by his production of "freight ton-miles," has increased 43 percent.

That is one reason why railroad employes are asking for wage boosts. They believe they should receive a reasonable share of the rising rail profits, as a reward for their increasing efficiency.

Moreover, the wage rates of railroad employes were lower than the wages of comparable workers in other large industries, even before the defense emergency began. Since then, this inequality has been greatly increased by wage raises in the other industries, while the pay of railroad employes remain the same.

Unless rail wages are raised, how can the workers in this most important defense industry meet the increased cost of living, which, according to Price Administrator Leon Henderson, has already risen 20 percent and is going much higher?

Very truly yours,
N. B. Huling.

Accidents, Fires Prove Dutch Still Resisting

IT took only four days for German armies to subdue the Netherlands in May, 1940, but there has been no victory over the Dutch spirit. Of all the occupied countries, the proud Netherlands wages the most determined fight against Nazism through underground organization.

The stubborn Dutch have pursued a policy of ignoring the Germans publicly, infuriating the invaders. They have found an ever increasing number of ways to annoy and harass the Germans—by pasting placards in prominent places, by scribbling "V" everywhere, by wearing white carnations.

The Dutch railway system, the 100th anniversary of which was commemorated in the 1939 stamp above, is one of the finest in Europe. But since the Germans have taken it over it has been plagued with split rails, open switches and similar troubles that could only originate in sabotage.

Fires have been springing up all over the Netherlands. The country is a continental landing point for British intelligence agents.

The oldest railway in Europe is in Belgium and has a length of 5000 miles.

A Washington Daybook

(Sitting in for vacationing Jack Stinnett, Miss Arne has written a series on Washington's women reporters. This is the first of three articles.)

By SIGRID ARNE

WASHINGTON—"Members and Press Only" is a forbidding sign which appears in two places in the capitol. One is beside a private elevator to the Senate floor and gallery. The other flanks an elevator to the House floor and gallery.

Newspaper men take that privilege absent-mindedly. But it's usually with a gulp that a woman reporter takes her first ride.

It was 'way back in 1850 that the first woman writer sat in the Senate gallery. Now, 91 years later, women are still much in the minority. Of 542 persons admitted to the press galleries only 38 are women.

THE women have every privilege the men enjoy, except the old "back room" gathering at the day's end when men cronies of press and Congress collect for a few "quick ones" and the low down.

That could mean the women would miss stories but they get around it by more persistent use of the phone and feet. I've never heard a trained woman reporter complain that any government official "held out" just because she was a woman.

But women must disprove personally the adage, "Tell a woman, tell the world." Once they do, they get a special loyalty from their news contacts.

THERE are many ways of doing it, but here's an example from Ned Brunson Harris, one of the few women to have headed a metropolitan paper's Washington bureau.

Ned had been tipped to a news bomb by a grouchy senator who swore her to secrecy. Then a representative called to tell her the same story. She played dead pan to the second call.

Then the representative told the senator he'd talked with Ned. The senator hit the ceiling with "So! She talked!"

"Talked? Did she know about it before I talked to her? She didn't say so."

The senator chuckled, phoned Ned: "You're one woman who can keep a secret." And he followed through with many valuable tips.

THERE are about 150 women reporters in this town — from young college graduates to frail Maudie McDougal of the Philadelphia Record, who looks the grandmother but won't tell her age. Some barely exist on gossip letters to home town papers. But some get around in chauffeur driven cars.

Many are "ex's", having shifted to publicity jobs, and most of those are with the government. Often they shift because of the one real handicap which Washington women reporters meet, in common with sisters in other cities. Editors still assign the real news stories to men, and request the women to come back with some bright guff about what Mrs. Roosevelt wore.

SOME few have taken that hurdle, and none more spectacularly than explosive, little Doris Fleeson of the New York Daily News, who made it 100 percent newspaper by marrying reporter John O'Donnell, also of the News.

Doris is the only woman who is assigned to presidential train trips as a straight news reporter. She has gone so many times that even tiny Doris, 5 years old, has protested.

CANNING SEASON

The home canning season is now in full swing and according to reports to the Department of Agriculture, may prove to be the heaviest canning season in many years. Housewives are being urged to avail themselves of the opportunity of canning as much fruit and vegetables as possible in view of the fact that food prices are generally listed to continue the upward trend. Home canning will lessen the demand for food supplies during the winter and reduce the possibility of shortages.

Chapter 27

"I Know Lee Gray"

VIDENTLY Jeff had learned all he wanted to. He got up, ucking Tommy on the shoulder ith his fist. "So long, Tom. And anks. A lot."

Out on the sidewalk again, alking toward Seventh Avenue, had trouble keeping up with ff.

"Where are we going?" I asked. didn't answer. "Jeff, remem- r me? I'm the girl you're go- to marry."

"Yeah, when I solve this more an slight case of murder."

He stopped, turned and started the opposite direction. "Haila, n leaving you here."

"Why?"

"You can't walk fast enough."

"Walk fast enough where?"

"Look. I'll meet you at your ace in about an hour. Keep rol there till then if you can." stepped off the curb and start- across Sixth Avenue. I watched m thread his way through the ffic tie-up and then, bunching collar around my neck with e hand and holding tight to the im of my felt hat with the ner, I elbowed my way to Fifth enue and started up it.

ft had been a two-faced day, rm and bright, with the smell April in the air, and now, sud- nly, it had pulled itself together th the coming of night and gone ck to being November with a ngeance. The wind, swirling wn the wide street, took sizable s through my thin tweed coat d I lost no time making it to sheltering canyon of Fifty- irth Street.

There was a knot of men in nt of my apartment building, o in uniforms of the city's fin- , the others wearing the glum sk that is apparently a requi- e for plain-clothes men. I ught a glimpse of Peterson in ep conversation with the pho- grapher whose equipment lay the step at his feet.

said, "Hi, fellahs," as I walked st the men and went into the oby where the boy who re- ved Jinx on the day shift, a sad, rose-faced boy, took me up.

The apartment was in complete rkness and I reached for the itch and snapped on the ceiling hts. Then, quickly, I turned m off again and felt my way ound in the blackness, pulling wn the blinds. I had no desire be a target for any guests of Esquador Hotel.

locked and bolted the door and iggled the knob experimental- in spite of the two detectives tioned outside, and then lit the le lamp. Over the yellow shade aw Carol watching me from the droom door. She had been cry- and the powder she had eared over her face in a gal- t effort to hide the tearstains s streaked and pathetic. She ist have seen all my precau- nary measures for there was rm in her eyes.

'Peeping Toms," I explained bly, pointing to the drawn ades. I sat on the couch and lit cigarette, resolving to do my ndest to drive the thought of rder out of her mind for a lit- while at least. "Darling, I nk it's swell about you and ve. In fact, I . . ."

'Oh, Haila, keep your fingers ssed! Steve's telling his mother out me . . . about us, Steve and ."

'She'll say yes or I'll mow her wn."

'Oh, if she doesn't I . . . I don't ow what I'll do. I won't be able stand it! He should be back n."

'If she says no, will that mean t Steve won't . . ."

'Marry me? I wouldn't let him, couldn't. I've caused Steve ough trouble, I . . ." She moved tlessly about the room, stop- g at last to curl up on the ch beside me. "Haila . . ."

News For Haila

WHAT, Carol?"

"Haila, I'm leaving here. morrow."

Well, whenever the wedding you're staying here until it. I n't have you going to a hotel."

I don't mean that. I'm not aid for myself. I'm afraid for . Haila, when these things first an to happen I was so terri- and sort of numb about it all t I . . . I was thoughtless and ish. It never dawned on me how I was dragging you into this mess just by living here at your place. And you were so swell about it, I just . . . well, I just took it for granted."

"Carol, don't be silly."

"And then, at first, everything was happening at the theater and I didn't think there was any danger here. Then today . . . that shot, Haila, that bullet could have hit you! You might be dead now and all because I . . . because of me."

"So that's why you're going?"

"I don't want to have happen to you," she said, her words scarcely audible, "what happened to Eve North. I'm all packed. I'll leave in the morning."

"Well, go in and unpack. You're not leaving here until you're Mrs. Stephen Brown. I won't have it. I'm in no danger, Carol! Why, that bullet didn't come within a mile of me. And there won't be any more bullets either."

I put my arm around her shoulders. "Stop worrying, Butch. We'll see this thing through somehow. Now let's have no more of this small talk. Let's discuss something really momentous, such as, is there anything to eat in the house beside beans?"

Husband-To-Be

THERE was a knock at the door and Steve was in the room. He didn't have to say a word, success glowed in his face. He took Carol in his arms but he was too excited to be affectionate; he had to talk. "We're going to be married! I'm going to be a husband! Look, look at me, I'm going to be a husband!"

"Oh, Steve!"

"You should have seen your mother-in-law's face when I told her, darling. She couldn't speak, she was speechless! Boy, I thought it was . . . I thought her silence was foreboding, but I had just struck the old lady dumb. I knocked her for a loop! When I left she was going to bed!"

Steve dropped into a chair and immediately jumped up. "I told her about you, about this, about everything, Carol. And Mother said"—his voice started to dance —"somebody should marry the poor little thing and take care of her!"

"But, Steve, that doesn't mean anything!" Carol's voice was tremulous.

"I showed her your picture and you're going home with me this week end at Mother's command. It's in the bag. Mother never lets anyone in our house that ain't fit to marry."

"But she didn't say yes, Steve."

"She knows you're in the theater and she didn't say no! And when she sees you, darling, and when Dad sees you! Stop worrying." He kissed her. I turned my back and started to play he-loves-me-he-loves-me-not on an old cactus plant.

"Ouch!" I said. Carol and Steve laughed politely. I got it. Cupid didn't have to blow his whistle in my ear. I went into the kitchen and played with the pots and pans.

Jeff's greeting to Steve and Carol brought me back into the living room ten or fifteen minutes later at a gallop. He was already at the telephone. "Hello, has Peterson come in yet? This is Jeff Troy, he'll talk to me. It's important, something on the Colony case. . . . Thanks, I'll hang on."

Steve and I fired excited questions at Jeff but he was connected with Peterson almost immediately. "Hello, this is Troy. I've been trying to get you every five minutes for the last half hour. . . . Listen, Peterson, could you locate Greeley Morris and bring him up to Haila's apartment? . . . I'm not asking you to run errands for me! This is important! I've got something I'll tell you when you get here with Morris. . . . I'm not withholding evidence! When I tell you what I know, you'll want Morris. I'm saving you time, that's all. . . . He isn't at his hotel; I've just come from there. . . . All right, I'll tell you! I know who Lee Gray is! I've found her!"

"Jeff!" I shouted.

"Please!" Jeff said. He turned back to the telephone. "You get Morris up here, Mr. Peterson, and I'll tell you." He hung up and took off his hat and coat.

"Well, Jeff?" I asked impatiently.

"Maybe I shouldn't tell you till Peterson gets here."

"Maybe you shouldn't, but you're going to!"

"Okay, relax."

Steve leaned forward in his chair, waiting. I glanced at Carol. She was staring at Jeff, her lips slightly parted, her hands clenched at her sides. None of us spoke. Jeff lit a cigarette with maddening care.

"Lee Gray is an actress and her name on the stage is Leila Gray. Ever hear of her, any of you? No? Well, she's not very well known. So far as I can find out she's only appeared in one play and then for only a couple of weeks. It was a tryout in England. In Manchester, to be exact. The play was Green Apples."

Steve said sharply, "Green Apples! But then, then Greeley Morris would have known her. I understood . . ."

4-H GIRLS WILL HAVE ROUNDUP IN FOREST CO.

Ida J. Peebles, home economics extension representatives of Forest county, reports that a county-wide roundup of 4-H girls at the court house in Tionesta on Saturday, August 29, will include a program of playlets, songs and games. Parents and friends are invited to enjoy the day with the girls and see what they have accomplished during the year.

They will show foods and garments, made and planned to suit their own particular needs as well as to attain certain other high standards as to construction. Awards of completion and ribbons of merit will be presented following the judging of the exhibits by Miss Mae Burseth of Pennsylvania State College.

Playlets will show work done in such fields as posture, good grooming and etiquette. West Hickory, Neiltown, Trumans, Redclyffe, Red Brush, Stewart Run and Tionesta will participate during the roundup.

The roundup is similar to that staged here last Saturday, when Mrs. Thelma Prendergast reported 180 girls of Warren county taking part.

New CCC Enrollment Procedure Announced

New Civilian Conservation Corps enrollment procedures to fill vacancies existing in local camps were announced recently by Director J. J. McEntee.

The new regulations substitute continuous enrollment in lieu of periodic enrollment and make it possible for qualified applicants to enroll at any CCC camp in addition to the State Welfare Agencies.

These regulations were necessary to meet current developments and increased industrial activity, induction under the Selective Service Act, enlistments in the army and navy have brought a severe decline in enrollments.

In order to be eligible for selection, or re-selection, as a junior in the CCC the applicant must be a male citizen of the United States, unmarried, not less than 17 years of age nor more than 23½ years of age. He must also be unemployed and in need of employment, not in regular attendance at school, willing to allot $15 a month of his cash allowance to his dependents, be in good physical condition and of good character.

Anyone enrolling with the CCC agrees to stay with the organization for a period of six months, with the privilege to re-enroll for a longer period upon completion of his previous six months period to the limit of two years.

Enrollments may be made at Headquarters, 318th Company, Camp, ANF-1, Marienville or at the Forest county court house, Tionesta.

SILVERTOWNS

▶ When Labor Day rolls around, bad-driving days aren't far away. Get set for the holiday, and for many months to come, by turning those old, worn tires in on Silvertowns . . . the tires that give you extra miles.

You'll do yourself a favor. And you'll help your country, too. It takes almost as much rubber to build a tire that wears out in a few thousand miles as it does to build a Silvertown, made with Duramin. When you buy a quality tire, you actually help conserve rubber.

Prices are still low. Trade-in allowances are still high. But no one in America can see very far ahead these days. It's wise to buy now, and to buy tires that will last a long, long time—Silvertowns.

SAFETY SILVERTOWN — Duramin gives it longer wear, and top quality. Hi-Flex cords make this tire much stronger than ever before.

DELUXE SILVERTOWN — Made throughout with Duramin. Gives the best combination of extra mileage, safety, comfort, and quiet running.

LIFE-SAVER SILVERTOWN — No tire can stop you quicker, or keep you safer from skids. 20% more miles than the original Life-Saver tire.

Pattern 4732 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3 3-4 yards 39 inch fabric.

State's Next First Lady

(AP Photo)

Mrs. Emily Radcliffe Case, former Cornell housemother, who announced, while visiting her sister in Doylestown, that she and Governor Arthur H. James will be married.

Doylestown, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Formal announcement of the engagement of Governor Arthur H. James and Mrs. Emily Case, 47-year-old widow and former sorority housemother, was made here yesterday while Pennsylvania's chief executive sat by and beamed.

The announcement was made when a reporter called, by invitation, at the home here of Mrs. Case's sister, Mrs. Charles A. Rowe.

Nothing was said about when or where the wedding will take place, but close friends indicated that it probably would be soon after the September 9 primary when the governor can take a respite from politics.

It was Mrs. Case herself who confirmed the engagement.

"Go ahead and tell him," said the governor.

She laughed, received a nod from her mother, and began:

"Mrs. Robert Anderson Radcliffe announces the engagement of her daughter, Mrs. Emily Radcliffe Case to . . ."

She paused and turned to the governor.

". . . This fellow here."

The governor later left for a fishing camp on the Susquehanna river.

200,000 JOBS IN STATE DEFENSE SOON AVAILABLE

Estimating that Pennsylvania's defense plants will need 200,000 workers by the end of the year, NYA Administrator Isaac C. Sutton today announced at Harrisburg, the quickening of a drive to train youths for the jobs.

"We want to see that every out-of-school and unemployed young person in this state will get the opportunity to take one of these defense jobs," said Sutton.

To that end, the National Youth Administration has expanded its manual, mechanical, and shop work program and has tied in the bulk of its activities with defense projects, Sutton asserted.

Defense operators are being trained in machine, metal, radio, aviation mechanics and other type shops all over the state, he said.

The NYA's share of the task is to train 50,000 young people during the current fiscal year, the administrator said, and an administrative counncil coordinating the efforts of three agencies has been created. It includes Sutton, Dr. Francis B. Haas, superintendent of public instruction, and Ernest Kelly, executive director of the bureau of employment and unemployment compensation.

NYA gives the youth actual work experience in its shops and on projects, the Department of Public Instruction provides instruction and training in their work, and the employment service keeps records of progress and placement in the defense job itself. The whole program takes about three to four months, Sutton said, with 80 hours a month devoted to actual work and an additional 80 of related training.

At present there are about 6,500 young men and women at work in shops for the three-month training period. All articles they make are for use by public, tax-supported agencies, Sutton said.

With Our Boys In Virginia

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 27—(AP)—Rested after a two-day trip from their home base, the 16,000 troops of Pennsylvania's 28th Division started combat games today preliminary to extensive war maneuvers later in the week.

The 109th Infantry and the first battalion of the 107th Infantry formed one combat team to oppose another made up by the 110th Infantry and the second battalion of the 107th Field Artillery.

Another regimental combat team problem was assigned a team of the 111th Infantry and the First Battalion, 109th Field Artillery, operating against the 112th Infantry and the Second Battalion of the 109th.

The division got its usual half-holiday today but the 56th Brigade was ordered on maneuvers during the night. Much time was spent putting the A. P. Hill Military Reservation in shape for use by the troops during the next three weeks.

The division's trip here from Indiantown Gap, Pa., its first all-motorized movement, was completed yesterday without mishap and drew praise from Major General Edward Martin, commander of the forces. He said movement of the 2,100 motor vehicles without loss of a truck or a bad crash "is a distinct tribute to the unit commanders and the men themselves."

There were a few minor accidents, one man, injured soon after starting from the Indiantown Gap Reservation, was returned to the camp hospital. One truck overturned and burned near Harrisburg while another upset without injuring the eight occupants.

Preliminaries to war games in which the Pennsylvania troops are to participate are expected to take place Thursday although no definite time has been announced for start of the meneuvers. During the stay here the soldiers will engage in individual combat problems, problems for brigades against involving the division as a whole.

SALVATION ARMY PICNIC IS HELD AT ISLAND PARK

Yesterday afternoon and evening developed into ideal picnic weather for 150 persons who attended the Salvation Army's picnic school outing for children and their parents held at Island Park at Youngsville. A number of old-timers were included in the group. About 200 had planned to attend but some were kept away by threatening skies.

Through the cooperation of many friends in Warren, the day was made a happy one for all, with cars being furnished by local service club members and others. Ample refreshments were supplied by merchants and business houses which also added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Awards were largely in the nature of school equipment, and for the most part, were contributed by friends with the remaining cost coming from funds supplied through Community Chest support. In all thirty awards were given for various races and contests.

In addition to the swings, slides, see-saws, there were numerous games including badminton and mush ball. The young people's ball team from Jamestown has challenged the Warren corps and this contest was won by Warren, the final score being 12-10.

Brooklyn's beloved bums have met the enemy and although they didn't conquer, neither were they conquered.

It had been apparent that the Dodgers and their fierce foes, the St. Louis Cardinals, were very evenly matched even before they came up to their crucila four-game series at Brooklyn this week and everything that was done in their two doubleheaders served to emphasize this fact.

Brooklyn looked like a whirlwind in winning yesterday's opener, 8-3, and then subsided into a zephyr before the magnificent pitching of Mort Cooper in losing the eight-inning nightcap, 3-1.

However, the series was not quite as much of a stalemate as the scores would indicate, because the Dodgers came out with their 1½ game lead intact and seemed to have an edge in the remaining schedule.

After meeting the sizzling Cincinnati Reds tonight at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn will have 30 contests left to play. Ten of them, including three at St. Louis, are against the western clubs, and all the others are against the second-division eastern group—no less than nine with the last-place Phillies, who have beaten Brooklyn only once this season.

The Cardinals without Terry Moore and Enos Slaughter in the outfield did not look like the same club and except for Cooper's great pitching and a fielding breakdown by Pewee Reese of the Dodgers in yesterday's nightcap, St. Louis would have been routed.

Brooklyn made a dozen hits off four pitchers in the first tilt. Six were for extra bases and all of them except two home runs might have been held to singles by good fielding. Curt Davis pitched an effective seven-hitter and smacked his second circuit blow of the season. Dolph Camilli blasted his 26th.

Don Padgett and Johnny Mize made six of St. Louis' hits and produced all the Cards' runs, two on Mize's 14th homer.

Cooper pitched a seven-hitter in the nightcap and would have had a shutout except for another homer by Camilli in the eighth inning. Cooper was matched for six scoreless innings by 40-year-old Fred Fitzsimmons, but in the seventh Reese made two consecutive errors at shortstop and Johnny Hopp, who had been held hitless all day, doubled to score both runners.

The doubleheader drew a crowd of 38,107, five thousand more than the park could seat.

Because of Monday's rain, all the National League contests were doubleheaders.

SUNDAY TO BE MORRISON DAY AT IRVINE LOT

Next Sunday will be Morrison day at Irvine, it was announced by the Forge management today, and it is definitely set to have the State Hospital as the opponents for the popular Irvine manager's outfit.

"Emmy" has built up a fine club this season which boasts a good record and is coming to the end of a successful season from every standpoint.

His individual work in every game, both offensively and defensively, is deserving of a day on which fans may have the opportunity to honor him.

Morrison is a fine baseball player, and moreover, a great sport, whether he be on a winning or losing club. His spirit has led the Forge afield and fans have asked at various times all season why he wasn't feted.

So now, when a time could be no better, the popular sectional baseball figure, will have his day as the Forge closes its season Sunday in their single game against the Hospital starting at 3 o'clock at Wilder Field.

All local followers of the team, wishing to present individual gifts to "Emmy", may leave their presents at the B. & B. Smoke Shop and Don Finley's Sporting Goods store where they will be collected at noon on Saturday.

DRUMMOND WILL HAVE CHANCE AT KANE; NEW GRID CALENDARS NEATLY SET UP

There was none more surprised than this bureau when word was received of the resignation of Russell Yost at Kane High School over the weekend, and the appointment of Tom Drummond, Sheffield High coach, to take Yost's place. It's been a busy year for shifting among the scholastic mentors throughout the state, especially in this section. Yost and Drummond have been two of the greatest coaches ever to teach in their respective schools of late, and both have commendable records, all things considered, during their years of mentoring. Yost will take a similar position in Lawrence Park High this fall. And Drummond should come into his own now that he's got an opportunity at a school where the material is at least adequate for football. Sehffield and Youngsville, like many others, are too small to be rated with Warren, Kane, Bradford, etc., and it's a mighty hard thing for any coach (with or without "T" formation) to show his true wares in a school the size of that represented by the Wolverines. But now, Drummond will have a chance to know what strong reserve material means, and we look for him to have a fairly successful season right off the griddle this fall.

Paul Yagge, capable riflemen and all-around sportsman, dropped into our sanctum yesterday to present us with the new football calendars, the first of their type to be issued so far as we know. And, like they always are, these will not only be the first, but the best and most complete football references that fans can lay their eyes upon outside of the regular guides and registers that are printed for that sole purpose. This little booklet of Yagge's includes just about every college with a reputation and also the professional grid schedule. Signs and their meaning which are used or will be used by referees this autumn are explained in the book, and a calendar for the rest of this year and the first four months of 1942 is provided on the front. Yagge informed us he ordered about 250 copies and they're going fast, but anyone can have one by calling at his office in the Warren Bank and Trust building.

Mid-week grid-ironing . . . Anthony "Turk" Triscari, Jamestown grid star of high school and Ariel football, has volunteered his services to the United States Army . . . Two Pennsylvania stars, Captain Gene Davis and Halfback Jackie Welsh, may be taken via the draft, leaving Coach George Munger with two added worries . . . Davis is a blocking back, by the way . . . Joe Gardner tells this bureau he doesn't care especially for any bit of the Forge ball club, including their "bat boy", Steve Massa . . . Aw, now, Joe . . . But it's definitely set that the Hospital will play Sunday at Wilder Field and they'll be out for blood . . . And, what's more, the crowd should surpass any that the Forge has greeted this summer, because they drew quite a gathering in that twilight tilt, and now, with more interest than before, those stands at Irvine should have a busy afternoon . . . This corner isn't making any predictions other than this: We'll be surprised if there's a rout, and doubt one . . . It's going to be a tough tussle for both crews and a swell way to drop the curtain on a highly successful Forge season . . . The Hospital will plug along a week afterward.

Joe Massa Gets Sheffield Post

Sheffield, Aug. 27—The Sheffield Township school board at a special meeting held in the high school last night elected Joe Massa, a popular Warren young man who for the past four years has been athletic coach at Kinzua Hi, to succeed Tom Drummand as head athletic coach and boys' physical education instructor at Sheffield Hi.

Election of Massa to the local coaching post was preceded by formal acceptance by the school board of Mr. Drummond's resignation, tendered late last week by Drummond following his election to and acceptance of the head football coaching job at Kane High School.

Massa will take up his duties as coach here immediately and Drummond will do likewise at Kane.

START MATCHES TODAY IN GOLF PLAY AT OMAHA

Omaha, Aug. 27—(AP)—If these high-scoring National Amateur Golf Championship seekers will take a tip from Omaha's own Johnny Goodman, they'll start shooting for pars instead of birdies.

That was Johnny's advice today as 64 qualifiers for match play in the 45th amateur, none too successful in their medal-play battles with the Field Club's stubborn par-72, turned to personal engagements, with two 18-hole rounds on the "Black Wednesday" program.

Goodman, who wants to regain the title he won in 1937, credited unusually high qualifying scores, particularly on the back nine, to the fact the strangers to the Field Club's deceptive contours and distances were playing too boldly.

"The boys are aiming for birdies instead of being content with pars," said the former champion, who qualified himself with steady rounds of 73 and 75.

Ten players with 159's had to play off for the last seven match-play places, compared with a limit of 155 at Winged Foot a year ago.

The qualifying medal went to the popular Skip Alexander, 23-year-old former Duke University collegian who added a stupendous 77 to his first round 67 for 144, exactly even par.

THE VOICE of the FANS

(Finally, after three months on this desk and numerous attempts, in vain, to get fans to take advantage of our proposed Fan Club, we are starting to get a little biz. So here's the first article of several, we hope, which will appear in this new feature. Remember, you can write on anything as long as the facts you print are well founded and you sign your full name to each article. Of course, it is understood that the paper holds the privilege of rejecting any articles which it does not see fit to use. Thanks to Joe Gardner for letter No. 1.)

State Hospital,
Warren, Pa.,
Aug. 26, 1941.

Note to Mr. Kannen:

For the past two months I have tried to book your slightly overrated ball club. I finally succeeded in getting a twilight affair with you in which no decision was possible due to the fact that darkness as well as some good luck came to your aid staving off what would otherwise have been a bad beating.

In my book I would sum up the situation thus: man for man aside from your pitching staff we have the better club, and even in that department although we have but one starting pitcher we have a fellow who is good enough to hold such hitters as Petrewski, Solock, Geigrich, Mack, and Creola down without much trouble. The rest of your club, while a bit more potent with the willow, are not to be feared. As for our own club, with the exception of Jewell and our manager Rabbit Swanson, the average age of our players is nineteen years. This gives us youth and the unpredictable quality that goes with youth as against the known (?) assets of the Forge players.

The gist of the above is to remind you, James, that we are coming to your town next Sunday to win, and you won't be able to hide behind the umpire at dusk as you did on our field.

Business Manager, W. S. H.

CALIFORNIANS COMMAND COURT PLAY AT PHILLY

Philadelphia, Aug. 27—(AP)—A resolute rally from almost certain defeat enabled Gert Moran, pert fifth-seeded coast beauty, to give California all but two spots in today's quarter finals of the National Girls Tennis Championships.

The 17-year-old Santa Monica star squeezed by two match points to eliminate unseeded Muriel Magnuson, National Public Parks women's champ from Minneapolis, 4-6, 6-2, 8-6, on the Philadelphia Cricket Club grass courts yesterday. Her safe arrival meant a clean sweep for the favorite bracket.

Barbara Krase, No. 3, San Francisco, was another seeded star to travel a rocky road to the quarters. She was within two points of defeat at 5-3, third set, against 14-year-old Shirley Fry, Akron, O., but ultimately eked out a 3-6, 6-3, 8-6 decision.

Even Doris Hart, second-seeded Miami, Fla., shotmaker, had trouble eliminating tiny Barbara Ann Brooke, Pasadena, Calif., 6-2, 10-8.

Miss Hart and Nellie Sheer, No. 8, Miami Beach, were all that kept California from taking every quarter-final berth. Miss Sheer pounded the backhand of Frances Grossnickle, Columbus, Miss., to a fare-thee-well to triumph 6-3, 6-3.

Defending champion Louise Brough of Beverly Hills breezed by Gloria Evans, Upper Montclair, N. J., 6-0, 6-1, and faced Miss Sheer this afternoon. Miss Brough drew a lucky bye and has dropped only three games in two soft matches.

Shirley Cattan, No. 4, Alameda, accounted for another eastern casualty by sidetracking Lillian Lopaus, City Island, N. Y., 6-0, 6-1, and Judy Atterbury, Great Neck, N. Y., was defeated in straight sets 6-2, 6-4 by Mary Ann Morgenstern, Hermosa Beach, Calif.

Slim Marie Jacks, No. 6, San Diego, walloped Betty Rosenquest, South Orange, N. J., 6-2, 6-2, to complete the cycle of west coast triumphs.

Quarter-final pairings other than the defending champion find Miss Krase against Miss Jacks, Miss Hart opposing Miss Moran and Miss Morgenstern lined up against Miss Catton.

Top-seeded Miss Hart and Miss Sheer led the doubles into the quarters, overcoming Miss Lopaus and Miss Rosenquest, 6-4, 6-1.

TWENTY-FIVE ROUND BOUT IN WASHINGTON

Washington, Aug. 27—(AP)—Bill Poland, up-and-coming young Jewish battler now being groomed as heavyweight title contender, and Eddie Blunt, rugged New York Negro, meet here tonight in a 25-round main attraction of a 67-round boxing card.

It will be the longest-scheduled fight ever held in Washington and one of the very few bouts billed for more than 20 rounds since Jess Willard knocked out Jack Johnson in 26 heats for the heavyweight championship in Havana in 1915.

CHURCH LOOP TITEE TAKEN BY BAPTISTS

The First Baptist Church softball team won this season's laurels in a three game series against the First Lutherans during the past week winning the first and last encounters.

The first game ended 6-4, the second, a Lutheran victory was 13-10, and the Baptists retalliated with a 9-7 victory Monday evening to decide the series.

GUS LESNEVICH WINS TITLE IN CLOSE TUSSLE

By SID FEDER

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Gus Lesnevich, the fellow who was always the bridesmaid and never the bride in the light-heavyweight picture, was boss of the 175-pounders today, but he's going to have to prove it again to make it stick.

The Rugged Russian from Jersey, who waited through Billy Conn's reign for two years, whipping everyone but the head man, gained undisputed possession of the championship last night in Madison Square Garden by outpointing Tami Mauriello, the young baby-faced flailer from the Bronx.

But he did it by a margin as close as a fresh shave, and there was such a question left in the minds of the fans after it was over that Promoter Mike Jacobs announced immediately Gus would have to defend the bauble November 14 in the Garden against Tami. Being a sportsman, Uncle Mike wanted the matter cleared up to the satisfaction of all concerned. And the fact that a return go would prove most attractive to the cash customers didn't have a thing to do with making up his mind.

By flooring the 21-year-old kid in the second round, cutting his eye in the fourth, bloodying his nose in the sixth and generally running away with the match through the first 10 rounds, Lesnevich piled up so tremendous a margin that he had enough to hold off against Mauriello's closing drive.

Tami was fighting his first 15-rounder and his first bout against a light-heavyweight—and this led many to expect he'd have to do his winning early. But he actually worked just in reverse and all but won.

Caseys Even Series With Recreationers

The Knights of Columbus evened the City League softball championship playoff series last evening with a thrilling 4-1 victory over the favored Recreation Center.

Harry Wooster pitched a three hitter and had a shutout until the ninth inning when an error and a long fly combined to score the only run for the losers.

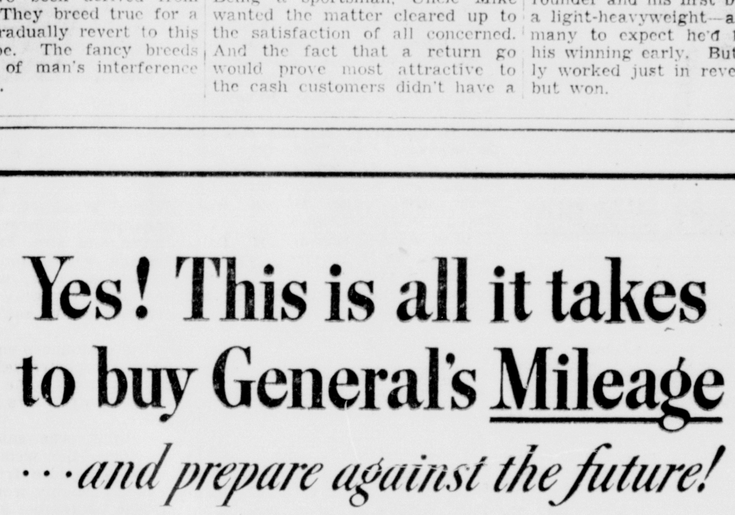

Meanwhile the Caseys were rolling up a comfortable lead on nine hits against Ray Hannah, who pitched over the distance but couldn't hold the Casey powerhouse when it got going.

The deciding game will be played on Thursday evening this week, weather permitting, on the West Side diamond at six o'clock.

season games "until the danger is past."

Dr. J. Moore Campbell, director of health conservation, said 250 cases of the disease have been reported this year and feared the outbreak would increase in intensity next month.

"With September yet to come this outbreak will undoubtedly surpass any since 1932," Dr. Campbell said. That year the disease took a toll of 144 lives.

Schools were ordered by the State Health Department to remain closed at least until September 15 in the 10 counties where most cases were reported. Similar action was taken last night by at least one local community—Erndale borough, near Johnstown. If conditions require it, the summer vacation for school children will be extended beyond mid-September, Dr. Campbell said.

The health director expected at least another 250 cases next month, saying "September as a bad month for the disease stands out like a sore thumb all through the years."

Approximately 280,000 children are affected by the State Department's order to keep the classrooms closed until September 15 in York, Dauphin, Cumberland, Adams, Franklin, Lancaster, Montgomery, Lebanon, Schuylkill and part of Northumberland counties, including Sunbury.

The current outbreak centered in York county where 67 cases have been reported, the bulk of them since June. Most of the other cases are in central and eastern counties—34 all told among the state's 67 subdivisions.

"Western, northern and northeastern parts of the state are practically clean," said Dr. Campbell. "The only single area affected in the western section is around Johnstown, but that doesn't amount to much," he said.

Johnstown, Aug. 27—(AP)—A fifth case of infantile paralysis in Johnstown, bringing the number for the district to 12, brought a decision of the adjoining Ferndale borough to postpone opening of its schools from today until Tuesday.

Union, as well as for agricultural needs in the Soviet Far East."

These declarations were made Monday to the Japanese ambassador, Yoshitsugu Tatekawa, by the Soviet foreign commissar, Vyacheslav Molotov, and also in Tokyo.

Tokyo, Aug. 27—(AP)—Domei, quoting what it described as reliable sources, said the Japanese government had made representations recently to both the United States and Soviet Russia against shipments of American aviation fuel to the Soviet via Vladivostok.

The government, said the news agency, is taking a serious view of the situation.

Washington, Aug. 27—(AP)—Official quarters disclaimed knowledge today of any formal Japanese representations concerning American war supply shipments to Russia via Vladivostok.

FLYING MEET AT JAMESTOWN OF LOCAL INTEREST

Fliers from the Warren and Brokenstraw airports have been invited by Neil R. McCray, manager of the Jamestown municipal airport, to be among the 175 planes and more than 300 aviators to attend a "rendezvous" held there under his supervision on Sunday morning, September 7.

It is planned to attempt at that time organization of a Civilian Air Reserve Corps. Every pilot attending the rendezvous is asked to complete a reconnaissance report that will include a log of the flight and what is observed en route, particularly from a military standpoint.

The fliers will start arriving about 8:30 a. m. and all are expected to be on hand by 10 a. m., when breakfast will be served in the airport hangar through the courtesy of Mr. McCray. After this there will be short talks by men prominent in the Civil Air Reserve movement. Visitors will leave at noon.

It is stated by Mr. McCray that the public is invited to view the proceedings at the airport and that the rendezvous will be carried out regardless of weather, except that common sense and Civil Aeronautics Authority minimums will be respected.

The invitation sent out Tuesday by McCray to approximately 50 different airports within a wide radius, reads in part:

"This is an important get-together. We hope and expect to have nationally known writers and photographers on hand to publicize this event, the aim, of course, being to convince the public and those in authority that civil flying has a definite value in times of national emergency.

"Special instructions: Reconnaissance reports. Every pilot attending should complete a reconnaissance report to hand in at Jamestown. This consists of a log of your flight and what you observe en route, particularly from a military standpoint. Report your sighting of other ships, the make, their course, color; observe freight trains, number of cars, direction of travel; weather conditions in various localities, whether rivers, lakes or valleys are fogged in. Give the place and exact time of all your observations. Just assume that you are flying from a hostile into a friendly territory and are observing for the military commander there. Blank reports can be obtained from your airport operator or by writing the Jamestown Municipal Airport."

Officials at the Municipal Airport in Jamestown report that the hangar space is no longer sufficient for the many new additions of planes to the port. It will be recommended to the City Council that an addition be constructed shortly.

Reports of the State Department of Agriculture show a decrease in the 1941 lamb crop in this state. The number of breeding ewes one year old and older numbered 268,000 compared with 273,000 in 1940 and the previous 10-year average of 307,000.

METZGER-WRIGHT CO

WITH COMPANY I IN VIRGINIA

It's the last Saturday the boys are going to spend in Indiantown for three weeks now and it really is going to be something. There will be a detachment of Regimental guards left behind to see that everything is not disturbed and we are sure that the old camp will still be the same when we come back to it.

The entire division will shove off sometime early in the morning on Monday and will be on it's way. Due to the fact that we are leaving on this date no one is to have a pass for longer than 12:00 noon Sunday and that as you can see is a good idea for the men have to pack all of their equipment and have everything ready to load and move before the trucks pull out in the morning.

The entire week has been devoted to combat problems and the ironing out of small details that have not been perfected before. The work really seems to be agreeing with the men because they are all smiling and seemingly quite happy. Although the main thing in their minds now is the fact that they are going on a trip and also are going in for one of the largest war games the 28th Division has ever been in since the World War No. 1.

With the men all in their finest of summer uniforms and everyone shining bright the entire division went on parade this morning and if anyone back home saw the boys on parade before and thought that it was a large body of men, they should have seen them this time. Since we have received all of our Selectees the division has enlarged to nearly twice its original size and it sure does make a difference in the size of the organizations.

Upon arriving at Muir Field (the division parade ground) the general gave an address to the men as to the status of the division and the work we were all about to undertake. He also cautioned the men as to their conduct and as to the care and handling of equipment. The big desire of the general is to see every man come through this sojourn without a single mishap and we sure hope that his big wish comes true.

FLASH: Our first sergeant is no longer able to run around and say that he is one of few men who never fell in love because he went and got himself married (as the boys in camp say.) The lucky girl is none other than Miss Marjorie Woodruff of Pleasant township and of course the man in this little duo is 1st Sergeant Joseph L. Schearer, Co. I, 112th Inf. Now the fellows don't mind his getting married in the least but it sure will seem funny to all of them when they hear the sergeant speak of his wife instead of his girl friend or as he usually put it his one and only. (If the writer of this column lives after the sergeant reads it he will endeavor to give you all the details as to how the sergeant acts after he begins to get lonely).

The rain down here is still holding its own but the boys are fighting a losing battle with it. The other day they all were quite well dampened when they came in and it seems just when you think the rain is all over it really does start to pour.

Things are rather quiet around camp except for our mushball team which went into action against the Champs of the 2nd Battalion, Co. E, 112th. Of course, our boys won the game but it was very close all of the way through and the final score wound up 13-12 in the Company I boys favor. It was a tough battle but we won.

Kenn Dunn our company clerk is nearly crazy these days trying to get all of his little articles packed in one small field desk and wondering how and where he is going to be able to set up his typewriter and start work again. We don't wish him any bad luck, but I'll bet he is a lot more sensitive to the ways of the army when he comes back from Virginia than he is now. (That's O. K., Kenn, we are just having a bit of fun these days).

It is time for all persons to know the address of the boys while they are gone so here it is:

Pvt. John Doe,
Company I, 112th Infantry,
APO 28,
Fredricksburg, Va.

Now what do you say that you all write to the boys real often while they are gone. We'll be seeing you in Virginia.

Early Collapse of Iran Resistance Predicted in London

NAZIS CLAIM ANCIENT FINNISH GULF CITY IS CUT OFF ON ALL SIDES

By the Associated Press

Giant walls of flames streaking up over the siege-girt port of allinn, capital of Estonia, indicated today that the Russians were deroying the city and presumably getting ready for a mass attempt to scape by sea.

German troops were reported to have the ancient Finnish gulf wn (normal population, over 135,000) cut off on all sides by land.

Dispatches from Helsinki, Finland, 50 miles across the gulf, said ie glow of the southern horizon above Tallinn began last night and ntinued this morning.

Observers on the Finnish shore also heard the thunder of tillery fire, indicating that German siege guns were pounding the ty.

"Operations before Tallinn proceed successfully," the German High ommand announced, adding that Nazi warplanes had sunk four oviet transports and damaged four other ships in the Finnish gulf.

Only a few days ago, the Nazis said they had thwarted an atmpt to send supplies to the beleaguered city, sinking seven Russian ips, two transports, a destroyer and a flotilla leader heading through e Gulf of Finland toward Tallinn.

Other rapid-fire developments crowded the international picture:

In London, informed sources predicted the collapse of Iran's restance within the next three days as Russian troops driving southard into the Middle East oil kingdom reportedly captured Tabriz, e country's second biggest city, and British Imperial forces strikg northward advanced 40 miles.

In Berlin, the German High Commnad reported that Adolf Hitler's vasion armies had annihilated the 22nd Russian Army and captured e town of Velikie Luki, far behind the main German-Russian line, lling more than 40,000 Red army troops and taking 30,000 prisoners.

Delayed dispatches from Teheran, the Iran capital, reported that e British and Russian ministers, after an audience with the Shah, d transmitted to their governments an Iran plea for peace. British ports from Simla, India, headquarters of the British command, said at Iran's small navy had been wiped out by British men o' war d that Iranian Admiral Bayendor had been killed in action.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said Red Army forces inding Iran (Persia) from the north had captured the town of Dilman, ly 100 miles northwest of Teheran, the capital. This would repreit a 3-day advance of 150 miles.

A sharp new crisis over shipment American aviation fuel to Rusa developed as the Soviet government made public a warning to pan that it would regard as "an friendly act" any attempt to nder trade relations between ssia and the United States via r East ports.

Swiftly following upon this disosure, Domei, the official Japane news agency, reported that pan had made representations both the United States and ssia against shipment of Amerin gasoline to Vladivostok, Rus's great Siberian port. The kyo government, it said, was aiting replies.

Domei, asserted that 10,000,000 llons of high-octane gasoline d already left American west ast ports en route to Vladivosk and said the Tokyo governent was viewing the situation th the utmost concern. The ct that high-octane fuel, denied Japan, was reported "passing der the very noses of the Japane" was described by Domei as reatly irritating Japanese sennent."

To reach Vladivostok, such ipments must pass through the a of Japan.

In warning Tokyo against inrference, the Russian governent assured Japan that supplies rchased by the U. S. S. R. in e United States were "destined the first place" to fulfill growg needs on the western front, in e 67-day-old war with Germany.

In Tokyo, the newspaper Kukon declared "the imperial govment was unable to remain inferent to aid shipments from standpoint of preserving peace East Asia."

Japanese officials have expressanxiety that United States war pplies sent to Russia might reain in the Far East for use along e Manchukuo-Siberia frontier, ere upwards of 1,000,000 Soviet ops and 500,000 Japanese solrs are said to be massed.

At the same time the United ates, announcing that a military ssion would be sent to Chungg in two weeks, gave Japan new dence that Washington intend no change in its attitude tord Japan's military incursion in ina.

There was no confirmation in scow of German claims that ga, 90 miles south of Leninad, and the big Dnieper bend dro-electric power center at ieperopetrovsk had been capred.

The Russians reported holding stubbornly around menaced ningrad and said that although luftwaffe had struck at the tified port repeatedly, not a gle bomb had fallen within the y limits.

Washington, Aug. 27—(AP)—The Office of Production Management was optimistic today that final returns from the recent aluminum collecting campaign would total 14,000,000 pounds of scrap.

FLASH FLOODS CAUSE HAVOC IN MANY SECTIONS

Damage Running Into Thousands of Dollars is Counted Up From Series Of Washouts Over Widely Scattered Districts in State

DROWNINGS REPORTED

Pittsburgh, Aug. 27—(AP)—Damage that ran into thousands of dollars was counted up today from a series of flash floods over widely scattered western Pennsylvania districts.

At least one boy was known to have been drowned, a three-year-old girl was missing and feared drowned, and motor police said the heavy rain might have played a part in one of the worst wrecks on the new super-highway in which two were killed and four hurt.

James Johnson, 9, of Hope Hollow, Fayette county, was swept to his death late yesterday when he lost his footing on a log bridge across the racing Hope Hollow creek. His brother and another companion leaped into the stream in a desperate effort to save him.

Near Greensburg, Evelyn Thompson, youngest of 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson of Gay Plan, was missing and feared drowned in the storm-swollen Zellers Run. She had been playing near the stream with two sisters, who were sent to the store. Evelyn asked her mother for her "new brown coat," put it on and went back to play. Two hours later she was missed and some 200 firemen and neighbors searched through the night for her.

Lightning accompanied the storm in many vicinities. Smithfield, Fayette county, was without lights for seven hours when a bolt struck a power transformer. Members of the Baptist church, arranging for a gala wedding to be held today, had to use candles and flashlights to complete their job.

Pittsburgh and its suburbs were particularly hard hit. Scores of cellars were flooded and pavements were ripped up in many sections.

Near Castle Shannon, along outbound trolley tracks, more than a dozen Washington, Charleroi and Castle Shannon cars were halted for several hours by coal that was loosened from a bank and tumbled down, blocking the tracks.

SNOWPLOW IN USE

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 27—(AP)—A hailstorm of such intensity that a snowplow was called into service to open the Denver highway struck north of here last night. Hailstones piled up from eight to 10 inches on a nine-mile stretch. A few flakes of snow fell with the hail.

NATIONAL PHONE TIE-UP HALTED

Dr. John R. Steelman, Director of the United States Conciliation Service, Wins Understanding Beween Western Electric Employes and Company After 61 Hours of Negotiations

NEW STRIKE THREAT AT DU PONT FACTORY

By the Associated Press

AFL Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Operators won at the ballot box today in the jurisdictional dispute which tied up Detroit's city transit system by strike last week. At the same time, the threat of a national telephone tie-up was averted.

A complete but unofficial tabulation of the Detroit vote named the AFL union as executive bargaining agent for the city transit system.

The election was part of an agreement, ratified Sunday, which ended the strike and the inconvenience it had caused the city's working population of 400,000.

The telephone dispute ended with an understanding between union installation men and the Western Electric Company, a unit of the Bell Telephone system.

Chief terms of the settlement were: A blanket wage increase of 6 cents an hour for about 9,000 employes; national recognition of the union as bargaining agent; new seniority provisions; an arbitration agreement, and the right on the part of the union to reopen the wage discussions March 1, 1942, if it sees fit to do so.

The Western Electric employes work in all sections of the country and were represented by the Association of Communications Equipment Workers, an independent union.

The wage increase is retroactive to July 29, and is coupled with a wage progression agreement. Company officials estimated the total additional cost to the firm at $1,500,000 a year. The current wage scale was not disclosed.

The union had issued a tentative strike call for mid-August, but the proposed walkout was held in abeyance at the request of the conciliation service while negotiations proceeded.

A new strike threat arose mean-

Bomber Delivered To England In 7½ Hours

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Consolidated Aircraft Corp., reported today a British Liberator bomber, averaging more than 300 miles an hour in sub-zero weather, had made a delivery flight across the Atlantic in seven and one-half hours.

Details of the flight from Newfoundland to Ireland were in an account released by the British Ministry of Aircraft Production to Consolidated, based on a report of the bomber's navigator.

The four-motor land bomber made the 2,350 mile trip at such a high altitude the crew wore oxygen masks. The outside temperature was 32 degrees below zero, but the navigator said the heated cabin was warm.

A crew of five made the flight, with an American at the controls.

Tokyo, Aug. 27.—(AP)—All embassies and legations—Axis, Allied and neutral—in Japan, it was learned today, are to be put under oil and gasoline quota restrictions in connection with a drastic rationing system which from Sept. 1, will ban gasoline-fueled taxis and buses.

Berlin, Aug. 27.—(AP)—German sources said the British lost seven Spitfires before noon today in attempts to penetrate the French and Belgian channel coasts. In German counter-blows overnight, they said the luftwaffe attacked harbor facilities on the British east coast and destroyed five grounded planes on bombed airports.

Tokyo, Aug. 27.—(AP)—District air raid practice in preparation for annual nationwide civil defense drills next month began in downtown Tokyo today with accent on defense against incendiary bombs which one newspaper indirectly suggested might come from American planes.

4,500 GALONS OF GAS SPILLED ON PAVEMENT

Evans City, Aug. 27—(AP)—A truck-trailer gasoline carrier overturned today on Route 68 at the entrance to Evans City, spilling its cargo of 4,500 gallons of gasoline.

Fearing the fuel might ignite, firemen blocked off and area around the wreck, detoured traffic, and started pumps to suck the gasoline from the street and a small stream nearby.

The truck was owned by the Marshall Company of Rouseville, near Oil City. Laverne Young of Emlenton, the occupant, escaped with slight injuries.

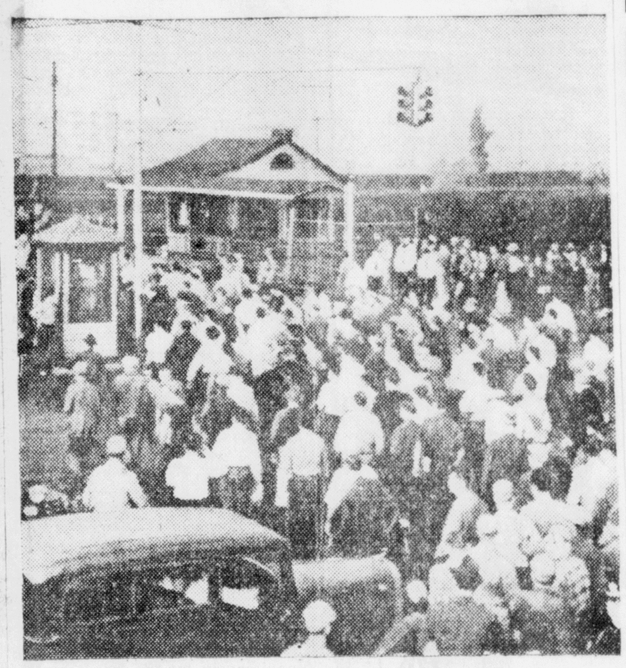

CRISIS IN FAR EAST SHARPENS

Moscow, Aug. 27—(AP)—The Soviet government has informed Japan it would regard as an unfriendly act any attempt to hinder normal trade relations between the Soviet Union and the United States by way of Far Eastern Soviet ports, it was announced today.

Colleges, Academies and Preparatory Schools In Ten Counties Asked To Postpone Opening of Fall Term Until October 1

Harrisburg, Aug. 27—(AP)—Fighting to prevent spread of an infantile paralysis outbreak that has caused 17 lives in Pennsylvania this year, the State Health Department today asked colleges, academies and preparatory schools in ten counties to postpone opening of their fall term until October 1.

Public schools in the ten central and eastern counties were ordered yesterday to set back their fall terms opening until September 15, and the department considering adding Cambria county to the list later in the day.

Swinging Back Into Business Sessions After Mammoth Parade, Encampment Moves Toward Showdown in Expulsion of Illinois Head

BULLETIN

Philadelphia, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was told today by Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, veterans administrator, that strikes on defense projects are "the result of bad advice." The veterans, after hearing the Hines address, adopted a resolution urging that jurisdictional strikes be considered unAmerican and outlawed. In another address, Brigadier General Lewis B. Hershey, deputy director of Selective Service, said that "something has to be done" about the high percentage of men rejected by the army for physical defects.

Philadelphia, Aug. 27—(AP)—Swinging back into business sessions after a mammoth military parade, the Veterans of Foreign Wars national encampment apparently moved toward a showdown today on court martial of Illinois Department Commander Earl Southard.

At least Southard said he expected as much and issued a fighting statement upon arrival declaring "I am here to be vindicated by the men whose dues were misspent

Members of Communists Party Threatened With Criminal Prosecution and Contempt Proceedings For Refusing To Answer Questions

NAMES ARE WITHHELD

Philadelphia, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Members of the Communists party were threatened with criminal prosecution and contempt proceedings today for refusing to answer questions at a hearing on Pennsylvania's new anti-subversive law.

The hearing was begun yesterday by the county board of elections to determine whether the law bars the Communist party from the ballot.

John Carsillo, who said he had been a Communist for 20 years, declined to tell today who collected names on two nomination petitions presented to the board because to do so "would jeopardize their jobs and subject them to police pressure."

Mrs. Anna Kress likewise refused to answer the same questions.

Morton Witkin, president of the board, said:

"Your refusal makes you amenable to the criminal law as well as to contempt proceedings."

Chairman Morton Witkin halted the hearing yesterday after heated arguments with Communist party counsel during which protesting shouts of "Kangeroo court" and "Hitler justice" were heard.

The flareup came after officials offered their testimony to justify refusal to accept nominating petitions of Joseph Dougher for city controller and Thomas Nabried for city treasurer.

The board called the nearing to determine whether Communist party petitions nominating them are illegal under a state law barring candidates of any party which advocates the forcible overthrow of the government. Communist leaders claim their party does not have this aim.

Dr. Joseph B. Matthews, research director for the Dies Committee, testified the Communist party here did advocate overthrow of the government. Argument that brought policemen hurrying to the scene ensued when Communist Counsel David Levinson and Philip Dorfman sought to question Matthews and had dozens of queries ruled out by Witkin.

Dorfman said that of 10,000 persons who signed the nominating petitions for the Communist candidates, 80 or 90 per cent were Republicans or Democrats.

LARGE SCALE RAIDS ARE WAGED IN PARIS

Paris, German-Occupied France, Aug. 26 — (Delayed) — (AP)—French police, proceeding systematically house by house, today blocked off a large section of the fourth arrondissement (ward)—workers' district around city hall—and took into custody a number of persons described as Jews and Communists.

All residents in the area, which lies along the river Seine, were required to remain inside their homes and submit identification papers to the police.

(This raid followed others in two Paris arrondissements last week—the 11th and 20th—in which more than 10,000 persons were arrested.)

DAIRY FARMERS CONFERRING ON PRICE SITUATION

Van Hornesville, N. Y., Aug. 27—(AP)—Owen D. Young, retired industrialist, conferred today with representatives of 55,000 dairymen serving the New York City market who have requested the Federal-State Marketing Authority to boost the fluid price from $2.88 a hundredweight (47 quarts) to $3.82.

Purpose of the meeting at Young's dairy farm here was not announced. It followed a discussion at Washington yesterday by Young, New York State Milk Control Director Kenneth F. Fee and Agriculture Secretary Wickard on ways of alleviating conditions in the milkshed caused by drought and labor shortages.

The petition signed and submitted to federal-state authorities by spokesmen of five major dairy groups asked a fluid price designed to bring producers a blended price for all milk of about $3 a hundred weight. This was the price demanded by the dairy farmers union in sponsoring an eight-day

Pennsylvania Producers Begin Planning For Visit to Washington to Lay Before the Office of Production Management Their Protests Over Recent Freezing of Prices At August 14 Level

COMMITTEE STARTS SHORTAGE INQUIRY

BULLETIN

Washington, Aug. 27—(AP)—Senator Maloney (D-Conn) proposed today that all unused railroad tank cars be set to rolling in an effort to relieve shortages of gasoline, fuel oil and other products. "I have the feeling that we may press the now unused tank cars—and other tank cars not badly needed otherwise—into immediate service," Maloney said. "I know that the cost of transportation by rail has been considerably greater than by tanker and pipe line." To offset this added cost, the senator suggested that railroads might "move whole trains of tank cars at one time," and thus reduce costs substantially. Maloney is chairman of a special committee appointed yesterday to begin a Senate investigation of the shortage tomorrow.

Bradford, Aug. 27—(AP)—Pennsylvania oil producers began planning today for a visit to Washington to lay before the OPM their protest over the recent freezing of prices at 23 to 25 cents a barrel under the market.

Hugh Grant, president of the Bradford District, Pennsylvania Oil Producers Association, announced receipt of a telegram from J. K. Galbraith, director of the price division of the Office of Price Administration, saying a conference could be arranged.

Galbraith specified that the producers, allied industries and employes would be heard "in the near future" if such data as they cared to present for consideration were submitted in advance.

TOP PRICE FOR HARD COAL IS CONSIDERED

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 27—(AP)—Several hours of discussion behind closed doors brought a recommendation from the Pennsylvania Anthracite Committee that the September 15 price be used as a ceiling if the federal government fixes a limit on hard coal prices this winter.

Price Control Administrator Leon Henderson recently indicated he might freeze prices at the August 15 level of $6.60 a ton. The price of hard coal of chestnut size on September 15 will be $6.75 a ton at the mines compared with $6.25 last winter. Prices of all sizes of coal are based on that of chestnut.

Community Singing To Boost Morale Advised

Philadelphia, Aug. 27—(AP)—Let's all sing like the birdies sing and boost civilian morale. That's the prescription of Lucy Monroe who's putting her idea into practice by holding community sings all over America.

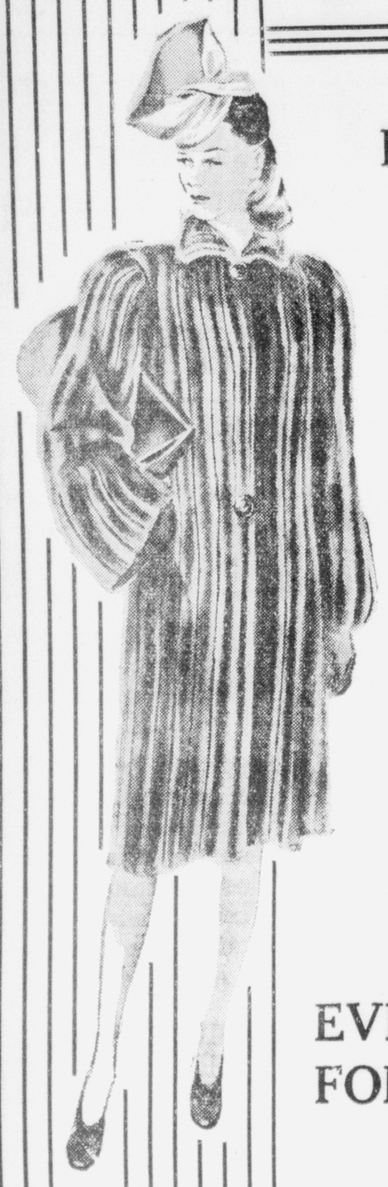

The former Ziegfeld chorus girl who sang her way into grand opera insists there's nothing like community singing for making people feel close together and patriotic.

Her sing of her tour took place at Washington early this month and attracted an enthusiastic crowd of 35,000. The second is scheduled tonight at the Philadelphia municipal stadium.

"It's mostly old-fashioned sentimental songs that people want to sing," claims the 1941 version of the wandering minstrel. "On patri-

He said Illinois delegates in caucus here had gone on record supporting him "and intimating they are going to bring the matter before the convention" where he is barred by suspension.

However, doubt that the affair would reach the convention floor was expressed by National Commander Joseph C. Menendez, who said he looked for a decision today or tomorrow from the 10 past state commanders who tried Southard at Chicago last week.

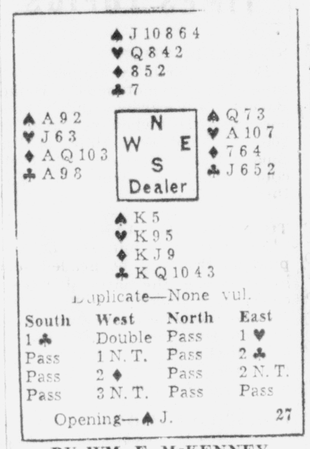

The Illinois chief's arrival followed announcement by Menendez that state commanders are "almost unanimous" in their endorsement of President Roosevelt's defense efforts and his foreign policies. He said 45 of 48 state leaders in a recent poll sanctioned the Roosevelt program.

After hearing Mayor Fiorella H. La Guardia of New York assert that a negotiated peace with Hitler would put this country in a position of a cop shaking hands with a bandit, the veterans yesterday put on one of Philadelphia's biggest parades despite 92.4 degree heat which sent 1,300 persons to hospitals.

An estimated 750,000 turned out to acclaim the spectacle which included 50,000 veterans of America's foreign battles since 1898, wives, sons and daughters marching with 250 bands that blared and thundered from noon to dusk. Detachments of police, soldiers, sailors and marines added a military note to the show. It took 2,800 of Philadelphia's 4,200 policemen to keep the crowd from treading on each other's toes.

Even though I studied engineering as a boy, I was amazed at that gigantic structure, Boulder Dam. Waldemar von Zedtwitz, who has traveled throughout the world, thought it the greatest piece of engineering he had ever seen.

I recommend that any player who wants to improve his bridge game take a trip to Boulder Dam. Looking at that project, you realize what planning the engineers had to do. A little planning in advance on any bridge hand will bring you a better score.

Today's hand is really a problem hand. Your contract is three no trump. With the opening lead, you are supposed to make three against any possible defense. Study the hand carefully before you look at the solution, and see if you can make the contract.

North is allowed to hold the jack of spades. He cannot help the defense by a shift. It is best to lead a second spade, letting the king fall to the ace, with the queen an entry to dummy.

West must now lead a low club and let South win with the ten. This puts South on the spot for exit. If he continues clubs, declarer wins two clubs, besides four diamonds, two spades, and a heart, as dummy has two quick entries for the diamond finesses. If South tries to exit with a heart, he simply develops a second heart trick for declarer's ninth trick.

while at the Du Pont Chemical plant at Belle, West Virginia. A committee of CIO employes there voted to strike September 4 unless the company agrees to a collective bargaining election. The CIO claims 3,000 of the plants 4,300 employes.

Five foremen at the strike-bound Titanium Pigment plant of the National Lead Company at St. Louis, Mo., were forced to forage for food in the plant cafeteria. Since Saturday night the foremen, assigned to guard the property, have not ventured out for fear that CIO pickets would not permit them to re-enter. The pickets have turned back a truck which carried food and bedding intended for the stranded five.

The union is striking for recognition as collective bargaining agent.

The Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Yards at Kearny, N. J., hummed again, with the navy in charge after a 19-day CIO strike. Under Rear Admiral Harold G. Bowen, the new boss, 17,000 men worked to complete $493,000,000 of vital ship construction.

No action has been taken on the offer of L. H. Korndorff, Company president, to sell the entire business to the government. The plant was taken over to end a deadlock between management and union on the latter's demand for a maintenance of union membership agreement.

In New York, some 52,000 dressmakers returned to their jobs today after a one-day shutdown ordered by the United Popular Dress Manufacturers and the United Better Dress Manufacturers Associations in a dispute with jobbers over the apportionment of an industry-wide 10 per cent wage increase.

Sunbury, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Joseph Mathews, 27, of Philadelphia, was indicted by the Northumberland county grand jury today on a charge of armed robbery for the $350 holdup of the Market street, Shamokin liquor store, last April 4. Mathews was arrested in Philadelphia and returned here to face the charge.

CORRY TEACHER IS ATTACKED BY FATHER IN N. J.

Miss Evelyn Brooks, 24-year-old Corry school teacher, was cut about the face, head and hands Tuesday when her father, Frederick Brooks, attacked her with a razor and hammer in their Summit, N. J., home, according to an Associated Press dispatch. The father had been injured six weeks ago in an automobile accident and had apparently succumbed to mental strain and attacked her without warning.

After the attack on the daughter, Brooks plunged to his death from an attic window of their home. Miss Brooks ran to neighbors screaming "I believe my father has gone mad."

The Corry teacher had been living with her father during the summer to care for him following the automobile accident. Reports from Corry state that Miss Brooks went to that city to teach French and English in the Senior high school at the beginning of the past school year. She went directly to Corry following her graduation from Bucknell University. Last Monday night she was granted a leave of absence by the Corry Board of Education so that might go to the New Jersey home to care for her father.

Oil Men To Be Given a Hearing

cuts despite orders by Leon Henderson. South Penn is the largest purchaser of the oil.

Washington, Aug. 27—(AP)—A plan of action against gasoline profiteering was drafted by the government today, and tomorrow a senate investigating committee proposes to begin finding out whether the reported eastern oil shortage is supported by facts.

Leon Henderson, price administrator, indicated he would proclaim forthwith a ceiling for motor fuel prices, to protect the 10,000,000 Atlantic seaboard motorists against unwarranted price increases.

Secretary Ickes, the defense petroleum coordinator, was called as the first witness before a special sub-committee of the senate commerce committee, set up yesterday after Senator Maloney (D-Conn) had said he wanted to find out "if there is an actual shortage or if we are being pushed around for psychological reasons."

Ickes, however, was vacationing in the west, and it was expected Ralph K. Davies, acting coordinator, would appear in his stead. Davies declared last night that the inquiry "will serve as a means for enlightening the public as to the conditions we face."

President Roosevelt, at his press conference yesterday, forecast that the problem of supplyin gthe east with oil would be eased substantially by spring, through launching of new tankers and by building of two pipe lines from the southwest to the eastern seaboard.

The trend of discussion in oil circles indicated the gasoline investigation would hinge on four questions:

1. Is there a bona-fide shortage?
2. Does there exist an organized effort by certain persons or interests to circulate false information to confuse the public?
3. Was there justification for transfer to Britain of one-fifth the tanker fleet hauling oil from gulf ports to the eastern seaboard?
4. How effectively are railway tank cars being used to meet the emergency, and how many surplus or idle tank cars are available?

The dead children were Marcella, 7, Claire, 4, and Paul, 3. The wounded were William, Jr., 11, and his father, William, a former policeman, both taken to Methodist Hospital.

William, Jr., was not expected to live.

Assistant District Attorney Heffernan quoted Morey, who was dismissed from the force in 1938 on intoxication charges, as saying: "My wife did it. My wife did it."

A hatchet handle and its bloody blade were found in different parts of the flat. A small knife, blood-stained, was found near the bodies.

Two Killed In Bad Wreck On Dream Highway

(From Page One)

Mary Jane Bismark, 16, a daughter, was so critically injured surgeons feared for her life. Anita, 14, another daughter, was cut and bruised.

Wilt and his wife escaped with minor hurts. He told state motor police he was riding along at 50 or 55 miles an hour when suddenly he saw the other car careening toward him.

"I swerved to the right and slammed on my brakes but before I could stop, I was hit."

Mrs. Bismark's 1937 coach was demolished. State motor police said she had just passed a big moving van in the rain when she lost control of her car. She was going west, apparently returning for a visit to her home in Milwaukee. Her husband, a printer, recently had obtained a job in Washington. He came here today.

Wilt was returning to Altoona from a visit to Pittsburgh, where he had an adjustment made in his artificial left leg.

Under party rules, each of the eight counties in the district were entitled to one delegate for every 1,000 Republican votes cast at the last general election. The counties are Bradford, Pike, Susquehanna, Wayne, Columbia, Montour, Sullivan and Wyoming.

FARM NEWS

Harrisburg, Aug. 27.— (AP) — Canneries and fruit packing houses throughout Pennsylvania went into full operation this week as the first sizable lots of 1941 fruits and vegetables poured in for processing.

Peach shipping began in the Franklin-Adams county district late last week and canneries indicated the quality of the fruit is the best in years.

Recent rains in nearly every section of the state have lessened the possibility of drought damage to vegetable crops, the Department of Agriculture reported, and tomatoes, corn and beans are expected to account for one of the heaviest canning seasons the state has had in years.

But snap beans in the Bucks-Philadelphia area were damaged by heavy rains.

In the western part of the state, snap beans made excellent growth and early cabbage was generally a full crop, the department of agriculture reported. Late Danish crop planting is about complete and late cabbage is heading fast in the Columbia-Luzerne-Schuylkill area.

Pennsylvania farmers' cash income last May totalled $52,036,000, as compared with $44,664,000 during the same month in 1940, state agricultural officials disclosed. A breakdown for May 1941 showed $5,448,000 realized from crops; $20,530,000 from livestock and livestock products, and $26,028,000 from farm marketings.

Shipment reports of the Department of Agriculture show that from July 10 to August 2, only two carlots of Pennsylvania apples were sent out, as compared with 171 carlots in the same period last year. Purchases by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation accounted for many of the shipments last year.

While the nationwide lamb crop this year set a new record, Pennsylvania reports only 268,000 breeding ewes one year and older, as compared with 273,000 in 1940 and the previous 10-year average of 307,000. The national crop is estimated at 34,549,000 head, five per cent higher than last year when a new record was established.

FALL IS NEAR

It isn't pleasant to think about, but the truth is that the summer is rapidly slipping away. But a few days remain of the vacation season.

In just one week school will be in session again. In most Warren county communities classes will resume next Tuesday or Wednesday. Play time for the youngsters is practically at an end.

Folks who are wise will take full advantage of the few weeks of pleasant weather that remain. Get out into the open all that you can. Absorb as much sunshine as you can, storing it up in your system against those wintry days when infection is prevalent. Physicians say it's the best preventive medicine in the world.

WINGS OVER THE COUNTRY

The present C. P. T. flight class at the Warren airport is over half finished, according to officials. Seven students have already passed their private flight tests as well as their cross country flights. Their instructors say "Good weather and the zest of the students have put this class through in record time," modestly refraining from making any comment about the excellent work of the officials and staff at the airport.

In this connection here's a suggestion from one of our Washington correspondents that merits some serious consideration. He says: "When the defense effort is over, and maybe before, the idea of people boosting civilian aviation for everyday use is to start teaching the kids aviation right in the grammar schools. Give 'em courses in model building as soon as they can whittle. Let 'em go to gliders when they're in high school. Then graduate to power flying when they get to college.

When that happens you will see multiplied a thousand times the experience of towns like Ada, Okla.

Only a couple of years ago, Ada's interest in flying consisted of "one airplane and me," according to the airport manager. And one doesn't have to think back very many months to remember when that situation prevailed right here in Warren.

Today there are two hangars at Ada full of planes, eleven private ships, ninety licensed pilots, and the city council has voted a $100,000 bond issue to start a $350,000 airport. By comparison there are 29 fliers with private licenses connected with the Warren airport, five of whom have commercial licenses, and two of these are instructing at other fields. There are seven privately-owned planes at the field, in addition to three owned by Manager "Slip" King.

Three years ago, no college president would have put posters up urging the students to "take flying." Yet today, 350 colleges and universities give regular credits in aviation. And R. F. C., by the way, has loaned nearly $2,000,000 to finance the establishment of about twenty aviation schools.

Washington officials are overlooking a good bet by failing to issue an order to folks who use cars to reach the place of employment, compelling them to get up five or ten minutes earlier so they don't have to race to their work at fifty or sixty miles an hour. Such a regulation sure would conserve plenty of gas!

One of the very delightful events of the summer season at Island Park, Youngsville, was the annual Salvation Army picnic held there yesterday with about 150 in attendance, including children and adults.

Never thought the time would come when the most exciting news out of the state capital at Harrisburg was announcement of the engagement of the governor.

Your plans for the double holiday over the weekend should include a resolve that your outing be safe as well as enjoyable.

Interesting Items Taken From the Warren Evening Times

In 1921

A syndicate has purchased good roads bonds of Warren county in the sum of $350,000. The funds from the sale of the bonds will provide the county commissioners with sufficient to liquidate the expense of the road construction now under way.

The closest match in the Horse Shoe-Quoit Pitching League thus far took place last evening when the Citizens National met the Policemen. At the end of ten games the score was tied and Radspinner was chosen by the Bankers and Haehn by the cops to pitch off the deadlock. The police won 21 to 20.

It has been a long time since the people of Warren attempted anything to interest the residents of the rural districts and the proposed auction of useful articles as well as livestock to be held in Warren in the near future should prove novel.

The street market this morning attracted the usual crowd and long before noon nothing was left but the fag-ends. Potatoes are still $2 the bushel.

Mrs. John Walters and Mrs. Oscar Granquist entertained the Glade W. C. T. U. at a picnic at the home of the former in Brown Run yesterday.

From all indications quiet will prevail in Warren on Labor Day.

Proving that sugar cane can be raised successfully in Warren county, Peter Hedges, who has a small farm at Starbrick, is harvesting his third cutting this year from a plot about 50x150 feet. Some stalks are ten feet tall.

The "Little World Series" of mushball got under way on the South Side diamond last evening when the Hanson Electrical Service crew, champions of the Eastern League, defeated the Walker IXL clan, Western League pennant winners, by a score of 8 to 7.

Captain and Mrs. B. J. Sampson, who were transferred from Rochester to succeed Adjutant and Mrs. E. Toplis, in charge of the local Salvation Army work, have arrived in Warren with their family.

Weather permitting, "Prof." Floyd Stimson, who arrived in Warren this morning, will make another parachute jump at the airport this evening.

District Attorney Leroy C. Eddy and Sheriff H. H. Jefferson left last evening on a business trip to Pittsburgh.

Candidates are still busy with hardly a day passing but what a half dozen invade the rural sections of the county.

Letters to the Editor

Aug. 25, 1941.

Times-Mirror,
Warren, Pa.,

Dear Mr. Lowrey:

According to the latest Interstate Commerce Commission reports, the "net operating income" or profits of the Class I railroads rose from $48,090,783 in June last year to $93,261,372 in June this year, an increase of 94 percent, or nearly double.

Comparing the same months of 1940 and 1941, the railroad's "gross revenues" rose from $344,952,789 to $355,022,722, an increase of only 3 per cent.

Thus the percentage in profits was 31 times that in gross revenues.

Looked at another way, net operating income rose $45,170,589, or over four times more than the $11,069,933 increases in revenue.

To grasp the significance of these figures, it is necessary to know what net operating income and gross revenues are.

Gross revenues are the total amount of money the railroads receive for their service. Net operating income is the money the railroads have left after paying all expenses—including wages, supplies, and state and local taxes.

Net operating income is only part of the profit of the railroads, because they also have "other income." However, counting only their net operating income as profit, the above figures show:

That, of each $1 of gross revenues, the railroads had 14 cents left as profit in June 1940, and 26 cents in June 1941. In other words, the profit per dollar of revenues, nearly doubled. Why?

How was it possible for profits (net operating income) to rise 94 percent while revenues rose only 3 percent, to go up $45,170,589 while revenues went up only $11,069,933?

The obvious reason is that the railroads' expenses, including their total wage bill, went down $34,100,656 in June 1941, compared with June 1940.

Summed up, the railroads' profits are rising because they are hauling more traffic and taking in more money, while paying out less in expenses. This is possible because of the increasing efficiency of the railroads and their employes. In the past five years, the efficiency of the average railroad worker, measured by his production of "freight ton-miles," has increased 43 percent.

That is one reason why railroad employes are asking for wage boosts. They believe they should receive a reasonable share of the rising rail profits, as a reward for their increasing efficiency.

Moreover, the wage rates of railroad employes were lower than the wages of comparable workers in other large industries, even before the defense emergency began. Since then, this inequality has been greatly increased by wage raises in the other industries, while the pay of railroad employes remain the same.

Unless rail wages are raised, how can the workers in this most important defense industry meet the increased cost of living, which, according to Price Administrator Leon Henderson, has already risen 20 percent and is going much higher?

Very truly yours,
N. B. Huling.

Accidents, Fires Prove Dutch Still Resisting

It took only four days for German armies to subdue the Netherlands in May, 1940, but there has been no victory over the Dutch spirit. Of all the occupied countries, the proud Netherlands wages the most determined fight against Nazism through underground organization.

The stubborn Dutch have pursued a policy of ignoring the Germans publicly, infuriating the invaders. They have found an ever increasing number of ways to annoy and harass the Germans—by pasting placards in prominent places, by scribbling "V" everywhere, by wearing white carnations.

The Dutch railway system, the 100th anniversary of which was commemorated in the 1939 stamp above, is one of the finest in Europe. But since the Germans have taken it over it has been plagued with split rails, open switches and similar troubles that could only originate in sabotage.

Fires have been springing up all over the Netherlands. The country is a continental landing point for British intelligence agents.

The oldest railway in Europe is in Belgium and has a length of 5000 miles.

A Washington Daybook

(Sitting in for vacationing Jack Stinnett, Miss Arne has written a series on Washington's women reporters. This is the first of three articles.)

By SIGRID ARNE

WASHINGTON—"Members and Press Only" is a forbidding sign which appears in two places in the capitol. One is beside a private elevator to the Senate floor and gallery. The other flanks an elevator to the House floor and gallery.

Newspaper men take that privilege absent-mindedly. But it's usually with a gulp that a woman reporter takes her first ride.

It was 'way back in 1850 that the first woman writer sat in the Senate gallery. Now, 91 years later, women are still much in the minority. Of 542 persons admitted to the press galleries only 38 are women.

THE women have every privilege the men enjoy, except the old "back room" gathering at the day's end when men cronies of press and Congress collect for a few "quick ones" and the low down.

That could mean the women would miss stories but they get around it by more persistent use of the phone and feet. I've never heard a trained woman reporter complain that any government official "held out" just because she was a woman.

But women must disprove personally the adage, "Tell a woman, tell the world." Once they do, they get a special loyalty from their news contacts.

THERE are many ways of doing it, but here's an example from Ned Brunson Harris, one of the few women to have headed a metropolitan paper's Washington bureau.

Ned had been tipped to a news bomb by a grouchy senator who swore her to secrecy. Then a representative called to tell her the same story. She played dead pan to the second call.

Then the representative told the senator he'd talked with Ned. The senator hit the ceiling with "So! She talked!"

"Talked? Did she know about it before I talked to her? She didn't say so."

The senator chuckled, phoned Ned: "You're one woman who can keep a secret." And he followed through with many valuable tips.

THERE are about 150 women reporters in this town — from young college graduates to frail Maudie McDougal of the Philadelphia Record, who looks the grandmother but won't tell her age. Some barely exist on gossip letters to home town papers. But some get around in chauffeur driven cars.

Many are "ex's", having shifted to publicity jobs, and most of those are with the government. Often they shift because of the one real handicap which Washington women reporters meet, in common with sisters in other cities. Editors still assign the real news stories to men, and request the women to come back with some bright guff about what Mrs. Roosevelt wore.

SOME few have taken that hurdle, and none more spectacularly than explosive, little Doris Fleeson of the New York Daily News, who made it 100 percent newspaper by marrying reporter John O'Donnell, also of the News.

Doris is the only woman who is assigned to presidential train trips as a straight news reporter. She has gone so many times that even tiny Doris, 5 years old, has protested.

CANNING SEASON

The home canning season is now in full swing and according to reports to the Department of Agriculture, may prove to be the heaviest canning season in many years. Housewives are being urged to avail themselves of the opportunity of canning as much fruit and vegetables as possible in view of the fact that food prices are generally listed to continue the upward trend. Home canning will lessen the demand for food supplies during the winter and reduce the possibility of shortages.

"And then, at first, everything was happening at the theater and I didn't think there was any danger here. Then today . . . that shot, Haila, that bullet could have hit you! You might be dead now and all because I . . . because of me."

"So that's why you're going?"

"I don't want to have happen to you," she said, her words scarcely audible, "what happened to Eve North. I'm all packed. I'll leave in the morning."

"Well, go in and unpack. You're not leaving here until you're Mrs. Stephen Brown. I won't have it. I'm in no danger, Carol! Why, that bullet didn't come within a mile of me. And there won't be any more bullets either."

I put my arm around her shoulders. "Stop worrying, Butch. We'll see this thing through somehow. Now let's have no more of this small talk. Let's discuss something really momentous, such as, is there anything to eat in the house beside beans?"

Husband-To-Be

THERE was a knock at the door and Steve was in the room. He didn't have to say a word, success glowed in his face. He took Carol in his arms but he was too excited to be affectionate; he had to talk. "We're going to be married! I'm going to be a husband! Look, look at me, I'm going to be a husband!"

"Oh, Steve!"

"You should have seen your mother-in-law's face when I told her, darling. She couldn't speak, she was speechless! Boy, I thought it was . . . I thought her silence was foreboding, but I had just struck the old lady dumb. I knocked her for a loop! When I left she was going to bed!"

Steve dropped into a chair and immediately jumped up. "I told her about you, about this, about everything, Carol. And Mother said"—his voice started to dance—"somebody should marry the poor little thing and take care of her!"

"But, Steve, that doesn't mean anything!" Carol's voice was tremulous.

"I showed her your picture and you're going home with me this week end at Mother's command. It's in the bag. Mother never lets anyone in our house that ain't fit to marry."

"But she didn't say yes, Steve."

"She knows you're in the theater and she didn't say no! And when she sees you, darling, and when Dad sees you! Stop worrying." He kissed her. I turned my back and started to play he-loves-me-he-loves-me-not on an old cactus plant.

"Ouch!" I said. Carol and Steve laughed politely. I got it. Cupid didn't have to blow his whistle in my ear. I went into the kitchen and played with the pots and pans.

Jeff's greeting to Steve and Carol brought me back into the living room ten or fifteen minutes later at a gallop. He was already at the telephone. "Hello, has Peterson come in yet? This is Jeff Troy, he'll talk to me. It's important, something on the Colony case. . . . Thanks, I'll hang on."

Steve and I fired excited questions at Jeff but he was connected with Peterson almost immediately. "Hello, this is Troy. I've been trying to get you every five minutes for the last half hour. . . . Listen, Peterson, could you locate Greeley Morris and bring him up to Haila's apartment? . . . I'm not asking you to run errands for me! This is important! I've got something I'll tell you when you get here with Morris. . . . I'm not withholding evidence! When I tell you what I know, you'll want Morris. I'm saving you time, that's all. . . . He isn't at his hotel; I've just come from there. . . . All right, I'll tell you! I know who Lee Gray is! I've found her!"

"Jeff!" I shouted.

"Please!" Jeff said. He turned back to the telephone. "You get Morris up here, Mr. Peterson, and I'll tell you." He hung up and took off his hat and coat.

"Well, Jeff?" I asked impatiently.

"Maybe I shouldn't tell you till Peterson gets here."

"Maybe you shouldn't, but you're going to!"

"Okay, relax."

Steve leaned forward in his chair, waiting. I glanced at Carol. She was staring at Jeff, her lips slightly parted, her hands clenched at her sides. None of us spoke. Jeff lit a cigarette with maddening care.

"Lee Gray is an actress and her name on the stage is Leila Gray. Ever hear of her, any of you? No? Well, she's not very well known. So far as I can find out she's only appeared in one play and then for only a couple of weeks. It was a tryout in England. In Manchester, to be exact. The play was Green Apples."

Steve said sharply, "Green Apples! But then, then Greeley Morris would have known her. I understood . . ."

New CCC Enrollment Procedure Announced

New Civilian Conservation Corps enrollment procedures to fill vacancies existing in local camps were announced recently by Director J. J. McEntee.

The new regulations substitute continuous enrollment in lieu of periodic enrollment and make it possible for qualified applicants to enroll at any CCC camp in addition to the State Welfare Agencies.

These regulations were necessary to meet current developments and increased industrial activity, induction under the Selective Service Act, enlistments in the army and navy have brought a severe decline in enrollments.

In order to be eligible for selection, or re-selection, as a junior in the CCC the applicant must be a male citizen of the United States, unmarried, not less than 17 years of age nor more than 23½ years of age. He must also be unemployed and in need of employment, not in regular attendance at school, willing to allot $15 a month of his cash allowance to his dependents, be in good physical condition and of good character.

Anyone enrolling with the CCC agrees to stay with the organization for a period of six months, with the privilege to re-enroll for a longer period upon completion of his previous six months period to the limit of two years.

Enrollments may be made at Headquarters, 318th Company, Camp, ANF-1, Marienville or at the Forest county court house, Tionesta.

State's Next First Lady

(AP Photo)

Mrs. Emily Radcliffe Case, former Cornell housemother, who announced, while visiting her sister in Doylestown, that she and Governor Arthur H. James will be married.

Doylestown, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Formal announcement of the engagement of Governor Arthur H. James and Mrs. Emily Case, 47-year-old widow and former sorority housemother, was made here yesterday while Pennsylvania's chief executive sat by and beamed.

The announcement was made when a reporter called, by invitation, at the home here of Mrs. Case's sister, Mrs. Charles A. Rowe.

Nothing was said about when or where the wedding will take place, but close friends indicated that it probably would be soon after the September 9 primary when the governor can take a respite from politics.

It was Mrs. Case herself who confirmed the engagement.

"Go ahead and tell him," said the governor.

She laughed, received a nod from her mother, and began:

"Mrs. Robert Anderson Radcliffe announces the engagement of her daughter, Mrs. Emily Radcliffe Case to . . ."

She paused and turned to the governor.

". . . This fellow here."

The governor later left for a fishing camp on the Susquehanna river.

200,000 JOBS IN STATE DEFENSE SOON AVAILABLE

Estimating that Pennsylvania's defense plants will need 200,000 workers by the end of the year, NYA Administrator Isaac C. Sutton today announced at Harrisburg, the quickening of a drive to train youths for the jobs.

"We want to see that every out-of-school and unemployed young person in this state will get the opportunity to take one of these defense jobs," said Sutton.

To that end, the National Youth Administration has expanded its manual, mechanical, and shop work program and has tied in the bulk of its activities with defense projects, Sutton asserted.

Defense operators are being trained in machine, metal, radio, aviation mechanics and other type shops all over the state, he said.

The NYA's share of the task is to train 50,000 young people during the current fiscal year, the administrator said, and an administrative counncil coordinating the efforts of three agencies has been created. It includes Sutton, Dr. Francis B. Haas, superintendent of public instruction, and Ernest Kelly, executive director of the bureau of employment and unemployment compensation.

NYA gives the youth actual work experience in its shops and on projects, the Department of Public Instruction provides instruction and training in their work, and the employment service keeps records of progress and placement in the defense job itself. The whole program takes about three to four months, Sutton said, with 80 hours a month devoted to actual work and an additional 80 of related training.

At present there are about 6,500 young men and women at work in shops for the three-month training period. All articles they make are for use by public, tax-supported agencies, Sutton said.

With Our Boys In Virginia

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 27—(AP)—Rested after a two-day trip from their home base, the 16,000 troops of Pennsylvania's 28th Division started combat games today preliminary to extensive war maneuvers later in the week.

The 109th Infantry and the first battalion of the 107th Infantry formed one combat team to oppose another made up by the 110th Infantry and the second battalion of the 107th Field Artillery.

Another regimental combat team problem was assigned a team of the 111th Infantry and the First Battalion, 109th Field Artillery, operating against the 112th Infantry and the Second Battalion of the 109th.

The division got its usual half-holiday today but the 56th Brigade was ordered on maneuvers during the night. Much time was spent putting the A. P. Hill Military Reservation in shape for use by the troops during the next three weeks.

The division's trip here from Indiantown Gap, Pa., its first all-motorized movement, was completed yesterday without mishap and drew praise from Major General Edward Martin, commander of the forces. He said movement of the 2,100 motor vehicles without loss of a truck or a bad crash "is a distinct tribute to the unit commanders and the men themselves."

There were a few minor accidents, one man, injured soon after starting from the Indiantown Gap Reservation, was returned to the camp hospital. One truck overturned and burned near Harrisburg while another upset without injuring the eight occupants.

Preliminaries to war games in which the Pennsylvania troops are to participate are expected to take place Thursday although no definite time has been announced for start of the meneuvers. During the stay here the soldiers will engage in individual combat problems, problems for brigades against involving the division as a whole.

SALVATION ARMY PICNIC IS HELD AT ISLAND PARK

Yesterday afternoon and evening developed into ideal picnic weather for 150 persons who attended the Salvation Army's picnic school outing for children and their parents held at Island Park at Youngsville. A number of old timers were included in the group. About 200 had planned to attend but some were kept away by threatening skies.

Through the cooperation of many friends in Warren, the day was made a happy one for all, with cars being furnished by local service club members and others. Ample refreshments were supplied by merchants and business houses which also added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Awards were largely in the nature of school equipment, and for the most part, were contributed by friends with the remaining coming from funds supplied through Community Chest support. In all thirty awards were given for various races and contests.

In addition to the swings, slide see-saws, there were numerous games including badminton and mush ball. The young people's ball team from Jamestown had challenged the Warren corps and this contest was won by Warren, the final score being 12-10.

Associated Press Sports Writer

Brooklyn's beloved bums have met the enemy and although they didn't conquer, neither were they conquered.

It had been apparent that the Dodgers and their fierce foes, the St. Louis Cardinals, were very evenly matched even before they came up to their crucila four-game series at Brooklyn this week and everything that was done in their two doubleheaders served to emphasize this fact.

Brooklyn looked like a whirlwind in winning yesterday's opener, 8-3, and then subsided into a zephyr before the magnificent pitching of Mort Cooper in losing the eight-inning nightcap, 3-1.

However, the series was not quite as much of a stalemate as the scores would indicate, because the Dodgers came out with their 1½ game lead intact and seemed to have an edge in the remaining schedule.

After meeting the sizzling Cincinnati Reds tonight at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn will have 30 contests left to play. Ten of them, including three at St. Louis, are against the western clubs, and all the others are against the second-division eastern group—no less than nine with the last-place Phillies, who have beaten Brooklyn only once this season.

The Cardinals without Terry Moore and Enos Slaughter in the outfield did not look like the same club and except for Cooper's great pitching and a fielding breakdown by Pewee Reese of the Dodgers in yesterday's nightcap, St. Louis would have been routed.

Brooklyn made a dozen hits off four pitchers in the first tilt. Six were for extra bases and all of them except two home runs might have been held to singles by good fielding. Curt Davis pitched an effective seven-hitter and smacked his second circuit blow of the season. Dolph Camilli blasted his 26th.

Don Padgett and Johnny Mize made six of St. Louis' hits and produced all the Cards' runs, two on Mize's 14th homer.

Cooper pitched a seven-hitter in the nightcap and would have had a shutout except for another homer by Camilli in the eighth inning. Cooper was matched for six scoreless innings by 40-year-old Fred Fitzsimmons, but in the seventh Reese made two consecutive errors at shortstop and Johnny Hopp, who had been held hitless all day, doubled to score both runners.

The doubleheader drew a crowd of 39,107, five thousand more than the park could seat.

Because of Monday's rain, all the National League contests were doubleheaders.

SUNDAY TO BE MORRISON DAY AT IRVINE LOT

Next Sunday will be Morrison day at Irvine, it was announced by the Forge management today, and it is definitely set to have the State Hospital as the opponents for the popular Irvine manager's outfit.

"Emmy" has built up a fine club this season which boasts a good record and is coming to the end of a successful season from every standpoint.

His individual work in every game, both offensively and defensively, is deserving of a day on which fans may have the opportunity to honor him.

Morrison is a fine baseball player, and moreover, a great sport, whether he be on a winning or losing club. His spirit has led the Forge afield and fans have asked at various times all season why he wasn't feted.

So now, when a time could be no better, the popular sectional baseball figure, will have his day as the Forge closes its season Sunday in their single game against the Hospital starting at 3 o'clock at Wilder Field.

All local followers of the team, wishing to present individual gifts to "Emmy", may leave their presents at the B. & B. Smoke Shop and Don Finley's Sporting Goods store where they will be collected at noon on Saturday.

DRUMMOND WILL HAVE CHANCE AT KANE; NEW GRID CALENDARS NEATLY SET UP

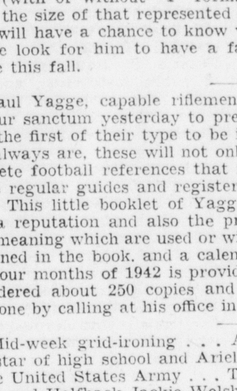

There was none more surprised than this bureau when word was received of the resignation of Russell Yost at Kane High School over the weekend, and the appointment of Tom Drummond, Sheffield High coach, to take Yost's place. It's been a busy year for shifting among the scholastic mentors throughout the state, especially in this section. Yost and Drummond have been two of the greatest coaches ever to teach in their respective schools of late, and both have commendable records, all things considered, during their years of mentoring. Yost will take a similar position in Lawrence Park High this fall. And Drummond should come into his own now that he's got an opportunity at a school where the material is at least adequate for football. Sehffield and Youngsville, like many others, are too small to be rated with Warren, Kane, Bradford, etc., and it's a mighty hard thing for any coach (with or without "T" formation) to show his true wares in a school the size of that represented by the Wolverines. But now, Drummond will have a chance to know what strong reserve material means, and we look for him to have a fairly successful season right off the griddle this fall.

Paul Yagge, capable riflemen and all-around sportsman, dropped into our sanctum yesterday to present us with the new football calendars, the first of their type to be issued so far as we know. And, like they always are, these will not only be the first, but the best and most complete football references that fans can lay their eyes upon outside of the regular guides and registers that are printed for that sole purpose. This little booklet of Yagge's includes just about every college with a reputation and also the professional grid schedule. Signs and their meaning which are used or will be used by referees this autumn are explained in the book, and a calendar for the rest of this year and the first four months of 1942 is provided on the front. Yagge informed us he ordered about 250 copies and they're going fast, but anyone can have one by calling at his office in the Warren Bank and Trust building.

Mid-week grid-ironing . . . Anthony "Turk" Triscari, Jamestown grid star of high school and Ariel football, has volunteered his services to the United States Army . . . Two Pennsylvania stars, Captain Gene Davis and Halfback Jackie Welsh, may be taken via the draft, leaving Coach George Munger with two added worries . . . Davis is a blocking back, by the way . . . Joe Gardner tells this bureau he doesn't care especially for any bit of the Forge ball club, including their "bat boy", Steve Massa . . . Aw, now, Joe . . . But it's definitely set that the Hospital will play Sunday at Wilder Field and they'll be out for blood . . . And, what's more, the crowd should surpass any that the Forge has greeted this summer, because they drew quite a gathering in that twilight tilt, and now, with more interest than before, those stands at Irvine should have a busy afternoon . . . This corner isn't making any predictions other than this: We'll be surprised if there's a rout, and doubt one . . . It's going to be a tough tussle for both crews and a swell way to drop the curtain on a highly successful Forge season . . . The Hospital will plug along a week afterward.

Joe Massa Gets Sheffield Post

Sheffield, Aug. 27—The Sheffield Township school board at a special meeting held in the high school last night elected Joe Massa, a popular Warren young man who for the past four years has been athletic coach at Kinzua Hi, to succeed Tom Drummand as head athletic coach and boys' physical education instructor at Sheffield Hi.

Election of Massa to the local coaching post was preceded by formal acceptance by the school board of Mr. Drummond's resignation, tendered late last week by Drummond following his election to and acceptance of the head football coaching job at Kane High School.

Massa will take up his duties as coach here immediately and Drummond will do likewise at Kane.

START MATCHES TODAY IN GOLF PLAY AT OMAHA

Omaha, Aug. 27—(AP)—If these high-scoring National Amateur Golf Championship seekers will take a tip from Omaha's own Johnny Goodman, they'll start shooting for pars instead of birdies.

That was Johnny's advice today as 64 qualifiers for match play in the 45th amateur, none too successful in their medal-play battles with the Field Club's stubborn par-72, turned to personal engagements, with two 18-hole rounds on the "Black Wednesday" program.

Goodman, who wants to regain the title he won in 1937, credited unusually high qualifying scores, particularly on the back nine, to the fact the strangers to the Field Club's deceptive contours and distances were playing too boldly.

"The boys are aiming for birdies instead of being content with pars," said the former champion, who qualified himself with steady rounds of 73 and 75.

Ten players with 159's had to play off for the last seven match-play places, compared with a limit of 155 at Winged Foot a year ago.

The qualifying medal went to the popular Skip Alexander, 23-year-old former Duke University collegian who added a stupendous 77 to his first round 67 for 144, exactly even par.

THE VOICE of the FANS

(Finally, after three months on this desk and numerous attempts, in vain, to get fans to take advantage of our proposed Fan Club, we are starting to get a little biz. So here's the first article of several, we hope, which will appear in this new feature. Remember, you can write on anything as long as the facts you print are well founded and you sign your full name to each article. Of course, it is understood that the paper holds the privilege of rejecting any articles which it does not see fit to use. Thanks to Joe Gardner for letter No. 1.)

State Hospital,
Warren, Pa.,
Aug. 26, 1941.

Note to Mr. Kannen:

For the past two months I have tried to book your slightly overrated ball club. I finally succeeded in getting a twilight affair with you in which no decision was possible due to the fact that darkness as well as some good luck came to your aid staving off what would otherwise have been a bad beating.

In my book I would sum up the situation thus: man for man aside from your pitching staff we have the better club, and even in that department although we have but one starting pitcher we have a fellow who is good enough to hold such hitters as Petrewski, Solock, Geigrich, Mack, and Creola down without much trouble. The rest of your club, while a bit more potent with the willow, are not to be feared. As for our own club, with the exception of Jewell and our manager Rabbit Swanson, the average age of our players is nineteen years. This gives us youth and the unpredictable quality that goes with youth as against the known (?) assets of the Forge players.

The gist of the above is to remind you, James, that we are coming to your town next Sunday to win, and you won't be able to hide behind the umpire at dusk as you did on our field.

JOE GARDNER,
Business Manager, W. S. H.

CALIFORNIANS COMMAND COURT PLAY AT PHILLY

Philadelphia, Aug. 27—(AP)—A resolute rally from almost certain defeat enabled Gert Moran, pert fifth-seeded coast beauty ,to give California all but two spots in today's quarter finals of the National Girls Tennis Championships.

The 17-year-old Santa Monica star squeezed by two match points to eliminate unseeded Muriel Magnuson, National Public Parks women's champ from Minneapolis, 4-6, 6-2, 8-6, on the Philadelphia Cricket Club grass courts yesterday. Her safe arrival meant a clean sweep for the favorite bracket.

Barbara Krase, No. 3, San Francisco, was another seeded star to travel a rocky road to the quarters. She was within two points of defeat at 5-3, third set, against 14-year-old Shirley Fry, Akron, O., but ultimately eked out a 3-6, 6-3, 8-6 decision.

Even Doris Hart, second-seeded Miami, Fla., shotmaker, had trouble eliminating tiny Barbara Ann Brooke, Pasadena, Calif., 6-2, 10-8.

Miss Hart and Nellie Sheer, No. 8, Miami Beach, were all that kept California from taking every quarter-final berth. Miss Sheer pounded the backhand of Frances Grossnickle, Columbus, Miss., to a fare-thee-well to triumph 6-3, 6-3.

Defending champion Louise Brough of Beverly Hills breezed by Gloria Evans, Upper Montclair, N. J., 6-0, 6-1, and faced Miss Sheer this afternoon. Miss Brough drew a lucky bye and has dropped only three games in two soft matches.

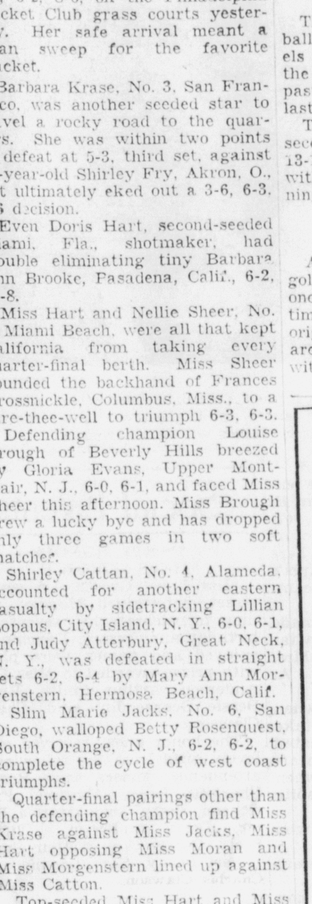

Shirley Cattan, No. 4, Alameda, accounted for another eastern casualty by sidetracking Lillian Lopaus, City Island, N. Y., 6-0, 6-1, and Judy Atterbury, Great Neck, N. Y., was defeated in straight sets 6-2, 6-4 by Mary Ann Morgenstern, Hermosa Beach, Calif.

Slim Marie Jacks, No. 6, San Diego, walloped Betty Rosenquest, South Orange, N. J., 6-2, 6-2, to complete the cycle of west coast triumphs.

Quarter-final pairings other than the defending champion find Miss Krase against Miss Jacks, Miss Hart opposing Miss Moran and Miss Morgenstern lined up against Miss Catton.

Top-seeded Miss Hart and Miss Sheer led the doubles into the quarters, overcoming Miss Lopaus and Miss Rosenquest, 6-4, 6-1.

TWENTY-FIVE ROUND BOUT IN WASHINGTON

Washington, Aug. 27—(AP)—Bill Poland, up-and-coming young Jewish battler now being groomed as heavyweight title contender, and Eddie Blunt, rugged New York Negro, meet here tonight in a 25-round main attraction of a 67-round boxing card.

It will be the longest-scheduled fight ever held in Washington and one of the very few bouts billed for more than 20 rounds since Jess Willard knocked out Jack Johnson in 26 heats for the heavyweight championship in Havana in 1915.

The First Baptist Church softball team won this season's laurels in a three game series against the First Lutherans during the past week winning the first and last encounters.

GUS LESNEVICH WINS TITLE IN CLOSE TUSSLE

By SID FEDER

New York, Aug. 27.—(!)—Gus Lesnevich, the fellow who was always the bridesmaid and never the bride in the light-heavyweight picture, was boss of the 175-pounders today, but he's going to have to prove it again to make it stick.

The Rugged Russian from Jersey, who waited through Billy Conn's reign for two years, whipping everyone but the head man, gained undisputed possession of the championship last night in Madison Square Garden by outpointing Tami Mauriello, the young baby-faced flailer from the Bronx.

But he did it by a margin as close as a fresh shave, and there was such a question left in the minds of the fans after it was over that Promoter Mike Jacobs announced immediately Gus would have to defend the bauble November 14 in the Garden against Tami. Being a sportsman, Uncle Mike wanted the matter cleared up to the satisfaction of all concerned. And the fact that a return go would prove most attractive to the cash customers didn't have a thing to do with making up his mind.

By flooring the 21-year-old kid in the second round, cutting his eye in the fourth, bloodying his nose in the sixth and generally running away with the match through the first 10 rounds, Lesnevich piled up so tremendous a margin that he had enough to hold off against Mauriello's closing drive.

Tami was fighting his first 15-rounder and his first bout against a light-heavyweight—and this led many to expect he'd have to do his winning early. But he actually worked just in reverse and all but won.

Caseys Even Series With Recreationers

The Knights of Columbus evened the City League softball championship playoff series last evening with a thrilling 4-1 victory over the favored Recreation Center.

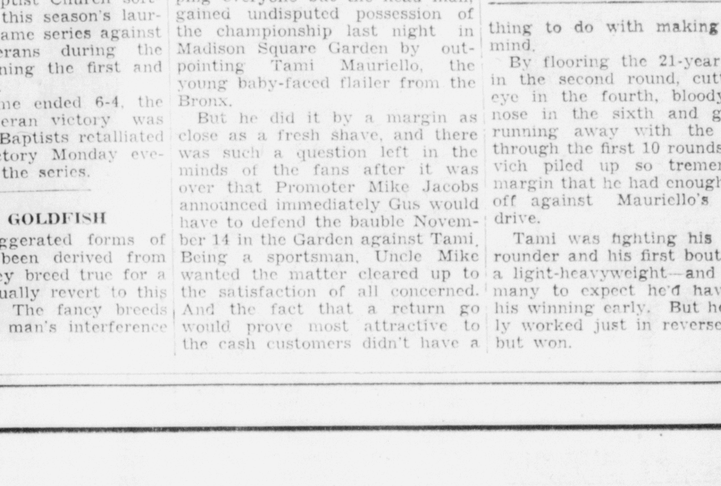

Harry Wooster pitched a three hitter and had a shutout until the ninth inning when an error and a long fly combined to score the only run for the losers.

Meanwhile the Caseys were rolling up a comfortable lead on nine hits against Ray Hannah, who pitched over the distance but couldn't hold the Casey powerhouse when it got going.

The deciding game will be played on Thursday evening this week, weather permitting, on the West Side diamond at six o'clock.

season games "until the danger is past."

Dr. J. Moore Campbell, director of health conservation, said 250 cases of the disease have been reported this year and feared the outbreak would increase in intensity next month.

"With September yet to come this outbreak will undoubtedly surpass any since 1932," Dr. Campbell said. That year the disease took a toll of 144 lives.

Schools were ordered by the State Health Department to remain closed at least until September 15 in the 10 counties where most cases were reported. Similar action was taken last night by at least one local community—Erndale borough, near Johnstown. If conditions require it, the summer vacation for school children will be extended beyond mid-September, Dr. Campbell said.

The health director expected at least another 250 cases next month, saying "September as a bad month for the disease stands out like a sore thumb all through the years."

Approximately 280,000 children are affected by the State Department's order to keep the classrooms closed until September 15 in York, Dauphin, Cumberland, Adams, Franklin, Lancaster, Montgomery, Lebanon, Schuylkill and part of Northumberland counties, including Sunbury.

The current outbreak centered in York county where 67 cases have been reported, the bulk of them since June. Most of the other cases are in central and eastern counties—34 all told among the state's 67 subdivisions.

"Western, northern and northeastern parts of the state are practically clean," said Dr. Campbell. "The only single area affected in the western section is around Johnstown, but that doesn't amount to much," he said.

Johnstown, Aug. 27—(AP)—A fifth case of infantile paralysis in Johnstown, bringing the number for the district to 12, brought a decision of the adjoining Erndale borough to postpone opening of its schools from today until Tuesday.

Union, as well as for agricultural needs in the Soviet Far East."

These declarations were made Monday to the Japanese ambassador, Yoshitsugu Tatekawa, by the Soviet foreign commissar, Vyacheslav Molotov, and also in Tokyo.

Tokyo, Aug. 27—(AP)—Domei, quoting what it described as reliable sources, said the Japanese government had made representations recently to both the United States and Soviet Russia against shipments of American aviation fuel to the Soviet via Vladivostok.

The government, said the news agency, is taking a serious view of the situation.

Washington, Aug. 27—(AP)—Official quarters disclaimed knowledge today of any formal Japanese representations concerning American war supply shipments to Russia via Vladivostok.

FLYING MEET AT JAMESTOWN OF LOCAL INTEREST

Fliers from the Warren and Brokenstraw airports have been invited by Neil R. McCray, manager of the Jamestown municipal airport, to be among the 175 planes and more than 300 aviators to attend a "rendezvous" held there under his supervision on Sunday morning, September 7.

It is planned to attempt at that time organization of a Civilian Air Reserve Corps. Every pilot attending the rendezvous is asked to complete a reconnaissance report that will include a log of the flight and what is observed en route, particularly from a military standpoint.

The fliers will start arriving about 8:30 a. m. and all are expected to be on hand by 10 a. m., when breakfast will be served in the airport hangar through the courtesy of Mr. McCray. After this there will be short talks by men prominent in the Civil Air Reserve movement. Visitors will leave at noon.

It is stated by Mr. McCray that the public is invited to view the proceedings at the airport and that the rendezvous will be carried out regardless of weather, except that common sense and Civil Aeronautics Authority minimums will be respected.

The invitation sent out Tuesday by McCray to approximately 50 different airports within a wide radius, reads in part:

"This is an important get-together. We hope and expect to have nationally known writers and photographers on hand to publicize this event, the aim, of course, being to convince the public and those in authority that civil flying has a definite value in times of national emergency.

"Special instructions: Reconnaissance reports. Every pilot attending should complete a reconnaissance report to hand in at Jamestown. This consists of a log of your flight and what you observe en route, particularly from a military standpoint. Report your sighting of other ships, the make, their course, color; observe freight trains, number of cars, direction of travel; weather conditions in various localities, whether rivers, lakes or valleys are fogged in. Give the place and exact time of all your observations. Just assume that you are flying from a hostile into a friendly territory and are observing for the military commander there. Blank reports can be obtained from your airport operator or by writing the Jamestown Municipal Airport."

Not all children's shoes are all-leather

Many children's shoes you are offered are NOT all-leather in vital hidden parts. Substitute paper or fiberboard just can't stand the hard wear, water, and misuse like real leather does. Don't take chances! Insist on Poll-Parrot shoes ... guaranteed never to have paper or fiberboard substituted for leather either in the parts you can see or in hidden counters, insoles or heel bases.

WITH COMPANY I IN VIRGINIA

It's the last Saturday the boys are going to spend in Indiantown for three weeks now and it really is going to be something. There will be a detachment of Regimental guards left behind to see that everything is not disturbed and we are sure that the old camp will still be the same when we come back to it.

The entire division will shove off sometime early in the morning on Monday and will be on it's way. Due to the fact that we are leaving on this date no one is to have a pass for longer than 12:00 noon Sunday and that as you can see is a good idea for the men have to pack all of their equipment and have everything ready to load and move before the trucks pull out in the morning.

The entire week has been devoted to combat problems and the ironing out of small details that have not been perfected before. The work really seems to be agreeing with the men because they are all smiling and seemingly quite happy. Although the main thing in their minds now is the fact that they are going on a trip and also are going in for one of the largest war games the 28th Division has ever been in since the World War No. 1.

With the men all in their finest of summer uniforms and everyone shining bright the entire division went on parade this morning and if anyone back home saw the boys on parade before and thought that it was a large body of men, they should have seen them this time. Since we have received all of our Selectees the division has enlarged to nearly twice its original size and it sure does make a difference in the size of the organizations.

Upon arriving at Muir Field (the division parade ground) the general gave an address to the men as to the status of the division and the work we were all about to undertake. He also cautioned the men as to their conduct and as to the care and handling of equipment. The big desire of the general is to see every man come through this sojourn without a single mishap and we sure hope that his big wish comes true.

FLASH: Our first sergeant is no longer able to run around and say that he is one of few men who never fell in love because he went and got himself married (as the boys in camp say.) The lucky girl is none other than Miss Marjorie Woodruff of Pleasant township and of course the man in this little duo is 1st Sergeant Joseph L. Schearer, Co. I, 112th Inf. Now the fellows don't mind his getting married in the least but it sure will seem funny to all of them when they hear the sergeant speak of his wife instead of his girl friend or as he usually put it his one and only. (If the writer of this column lives after the sergeant reads it he will endeavor to give you all the details as to how the sergeant acts after he begins to get lonely).

The rain down here is still holding its own but the boys are fighting a losing battle with it. The other day they all were quite well dampened when they came in and it seems just when you think the rain is all over it really does start to pour.

Things are rather quiet around camp except for our mushball team which went into action against the Champs of the 2nd Battalion, Co. E, 112th. Of course, our boys won the game but it was very close all of the way through and the final score wound up 13-12 in the Company I boys favor. It was a tough battle but we won.

Kenn Dunn our company clerk is nearly crazy these days trying to get all of his little articles packed in one small field desk and wondering how and where he is going to be able to set up his typewriter and start work again. We don't wish him any bad luck, but I'll bet he is a lot more sensitive to the ways of the army when he comes back from Virginia than he is now. (That's O. K., Kenn, we are just having a bit of fun these days).

It is time for all persons to know the address of the boys while they are gone so here it is:

Pvt. John Doe,
Company I, 112th Infantry,
APO 28,
Fredricksburg, Va.

Now what do you say that you all write to the boys real often while they are gone. We'll be seeing you in Virginia.
